THAW, ON WAY TO NEW YORK, FACES FIGHT ON ASYLUM

Attorney Says That He Is Enroute for Gotham to Give Himself Up

MATTEAWAN AGAIN LOOMS

Testimony in His Trial Murder to Prove Insanity Is Recalled; Jerome Says "I Told You So"

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 10.—Harry Kendall Thaw is now on his way to New York and probably will surrender to the authorities of the Empire state for trial on an indictment charging that he kidnapped and brutally whipped Frederick Gump, Kansas City youth, at the McAlpin hotel in that city.

That was the declaration shortly after noon Wednesday by Stephen Stone, Thaw's attorney.

"Thaw is now on his way to New York to answer the charges," the lawyer said.

Stone gave his information to a reporter for the United Press. He would not say from where Thaw is going to New York, but he did declare emphatically that "he has not been in Pittsburgh within forty-eight hours."

Shortly afterward the Thaw family, through Stone, issued a statement in which they asked the public of Pittsburgh and the country at large to withhold judgment until the case has developed further. It was said that the family is not certain that Harry even knew the Gump boy.

Thaw's friends here take the attitude that New York seeks to prosecute him and that he will make his fight on those grounds.

First intimation that this may be the keynote of Thaw's defense came from Roger O'Mara, the former detective and guardian of Thaw.

New Fight Expected

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Another series of bitter court battles in which Harry K. Thaw, slayer of Stanford White, will fight to the end to avoid again being committed to Matteawan, was expected here Wednesday.

When the indictment for Thaw on charges of kidnapping and whipping Frederick Gump, 19-year-old boy became known all the testimony introduced in his murder trials in an effort to prove him insane, was recalled. Evelyn Nesbit, divorced wife of Thaw, told of his throwing scalding water upon a bellboy in a hotel. Another witness told of his beating girls with a jeweled whip.

William Travers Jerome, long known as Thaw's "nemesis," refused to comment on the charge brought against Thaw, other than to remark that "it confirmed his judgment" of White's slayer being insane.

Be Lured East

Frank P. Walsh, former head of the government industrial relations committee, who placed the charges against Thaw before District Attorney Swann here, was in Philadelphia Wednesday with the Gump boy. Walsh told Swann young Gump was lured east from Long Beach, Cal., by Thaw on promise of a job or a chance for an education in the Carnegie Institute of Technology at Pittsburgh.

Thaw had met the boy in California, Walsh said. He wrote him numerous letters after returning east, always attempting to persuade him to come to New York or Pittsburgh. He finally sent him $50 and Gump's parents decided to permit the boy to take advantage of Thaw's offer to enroll Gump at Carnegie Tech. Thaw then wired Gump to meet him in New York.

Reserves Large Suite

"At the New York hotel, Thaw had reserved a big suite on the eighteenth floor," Walsh's statement said. "He had even rented two adjoining rooms, which I think he did to prevent strangers from hearing the tales which came later from his apartment."

"It was Gump's first trip alone, and the splendor of his bedroom somewhat bewildered him and it was some time before he retired."

"Soon Gump heard the door open. Almost instantly the lights were switched off and the boy saw Thaw, armed with a short stocky whip, make for him."

Tried to Leap from Window

Gump tried all the windows, even intending to jump out of the latter, but found them locked. Thaw, the statement declares, chased him about the room, waving him with a whip until he fell unconscious.

"When he had beaten the boy," the statement declared, "until his back and legs were covered with blood, Thaw quit the room as suddenly as he had entered."

On the next day a guard took Gump out for a walk. That evening, however, the boy escaped and returned to his home.

A detective from District Attorney Swann's office returning Wednesday from Philadelphia brought with him a number of papers found in Oliver Brower's pockets. Brower was arrested Tuesday by the detective, who believed him to be George O'Berne, also wanted in connection with the case.

One of the papers is said to be a statement signed by young Gump in (Continued on page 6, column 2)

Do Your Serving IN THE Red Cross Shop

Be sure and carry your thimble and scissors in your handbag.

This is the message of the La Crosse chapter of the American Red Cross society to every woman in La Crosse.

Then, when you are down town and have a minute to spare, or are tired of shopping, drop into the Red Cross shop, 522 Main street, and ply your needle for the national defense.

The Red Cross shop was opened this morning, under the great sign of the Red Cross. About thirty women are at work there today making supplies for the American base hospitals.

In the past the Red Cross here has conducted this work in the homes, and the supplies that have been sent forward from La Crosse have elicited special approval. But now, to facilitate the work, the Red Cross shop has been established.

"That the public may understand the nation's needs, let me repeat this statement made upon high military authority," said an official of the local chapter today.

The hospital supplies now available in American base hospitals would not last longer than two days were the United States engaged in actual warfare.

The Red Cross shop welcomes visitors, but it wants workers. Its work is under the general supervision of Mrs. Harry L. Colman, chairman of the hospital supplies committee. It is open from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m. daily, and the committee invites all women, whether or not members of the Red Cross, to help with the work.

One may drop in for just a few moments if longer time is not available. The quarters of the Red Cross shop are furnished free by C. J. Felber. Light and heat are provided by the Wisconsin-Minnesota Light and Power company, phones by the La Crosse Telephone company, sewing machines by the Singer company and decorations by Odlin J. Oyen, all free of charge.

COMMITTEE URGES THIRTY BLOCKS OF NEW BRICK PAVING

West Avenue from Main to Jackson Street the Biggest Stretch Suggested in Report

DROP ASPHALT MACADAM

Only Five Blocks of the Former Favored Paving Are Recommended for 1917

Thirty blocks of additional brick paving, much of it in residential districts, is the main item of the 1917 street program of the city, drafted at a meeting of the special streets and alleys committee of the council Tuesday night. The meeting was held in the office of Mayor A. A. Bentley.

Chief among the projects which were tentatively endorsed by the committee in its recommendation which will go to the council Friday night, is provision for nine blocks of brick paving on West Avenue south, from Main to Jackson streets.

The largest recommendation beside that is for six blocks on State street, from Twelfth street to the Green Bay tracks. Two stretches of brick are proposed for North side streets.

But two pieces of asphalt macadam, which has been the most favored paving heretofore, were recommended. They are for four blocks on North State street, from State to La Crosse streets, and Ferry street from West avenue to Thirteenth street.

The report recommends appropriation of $700 for repairs on La Crosse street, in conjunction with the county, and $100 for grading streets in the eastern section of the city.

The paving recommended in the report comes to $4,000 or $5,000 more than the $18,000 laid aside for new streets in the 1917 budget, but Mayor Bentley said on Wednesday it is believed the difference can be made up from surpluses remaining in several funds.

The sum of $6,000 will be spent in keeping streets in repair. The city is planning to keep to repair gangs employed as soon as spring opens up. The paving projects recommended by the committee follow:

Brick
West avenue, Main to Jackson; State, Twelfth to Green Bay tracks; Fifth, Cass to Market; Cass, Third to Fifth; Front, Mt. Vernon to King; Mill, Gould to head of causeway; Gould, Mill to Rose.

Asphalt Macadam
Eleventh, State to La Crosse; Ferry, West avenue to Thirteenth.

SEEK PASTOR

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—Police have been asked by Edmonton, Alberta, authorities to locate Olaf Hagen, 35, pastor of the Norwegian Lutheran church of that place. Hagen came to Chicago a short time ago to study at the Moody Bible Institute. Last week he drew $600 from a bank here and disappeared. He has a wife and two children at Edmonton.

MOTHER DECLARES "DOPE" LED TO HER DAUGHTER'S FLIGHT

Asserts That Eddie Gruhlke Won Louise by "Dope" When She Pursues Them Here

HOT ON THE TRAIL OF PAIR

Searching Party Due to Visit French Island Wednesday Afternoon

"He doped her," angrily declared Mrs. Peter Hanenberger, who with her husband arrived in La Crosse Wednesday morning, to head off the obstructed elopement of her daughter Louise and Edward Gruhlke, who secured a marriage license in this city on Tuesday by representing themselves to be of age. Mrs. Hanenberger asserts that Louise is only 17, and that Eddie is only 19.

"I've got that straight from girls she went with," Mrs. Hanenberger told a reporter in Central station, whither she had gone to enlist police aid in searching for her daughter, who is believed to be hiding on French Island with relatives of the would-be bridegroom. "Louise has just been crazy for a couple of months. I know he doped her."

"Now listen, Ma," Mr. Hanenberger, a long-mustached giant in a buffalo coat, "There ain't no use talkin' like that to the newspapers. Don't you pay no 'tention to her, young man. C'mon, Ma, let's get something to eat. We ain't goin' to start no chase after Louise on an empty stomach."

Mrs. Hanenberger, by means of the telephone, derailed her daughter's elopement twice, once when they attempted to get a marriage license in Winona, and again in La Crosse on Tuesday. Although the license was issued in La Crosse, the marriage cannot take place for five days under the statute, and Mrs. Hanenberger believes she can find the lovers and separate them before Thursday. The police have been enlisted to see that the pair does not escape, and a searching party was to visit French Island Wednesday afternoon. The Hanenbergs live at Eyota, Minn.

Supreme Court Ponders Legality Of Adamson Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The Adamson railroad law is in the hands of the United States supreme court. The court is to decide whether this statute, passed under sensational circumstances last fall to avert paralysis of the nation's commerce highways, is constitutional.

Frank C. Hegeman, special assistant attorney general, concluded his arguments to the country's highest tribunal at 1:45 p. m. and the court formally took the matter under consideration.

When a decision can be expected is mere speculation, both government and railroad attorneys agreed. Senator Newlands, chairman of the interstate commerce committee, announced Wednesday he would endeavor to close the hearings on the president's railway legislative program Thursday morning.

The committee will meet Friday in executive session, Newlands said and report out the president's railroad bills.

"Buffalo Bill" Cody, Noted Plainsman, Dies After Valiant Fight For Life

GREATEST FIGURE OF WESTERN LIFE DIES IN DENVER

Veteran Scout and Famous Indian Fighter Succumbs After Long Illness

WAS TYPICAL OF WEST

"Buffalo Bill" Organized His Wild West Show and Was American Boys' Ideal

DENVER, Colo., Jan. 10.—William F. Cody (Buffalo Bill) is dead. The noted plainsman and scout breathed his last at 12:05 p. m. Wednesday and with his passing it seemed to the thousands of friends who had closely followed his fight for life as the last vestige of the old west, the "wild and woolly" west, had passed with him.

He died at the home of his sister, Mrs. May Cody Decker, of this city, where for weeks he lay critically ill, fighting the hardest battle of his life. Weeks ago friends despaired of his recovery from a complication of diseases, but Buffalo Bill refused to give up. He rallied to the extent that he could be moved to Glenwood Springs for his health, but a relapse occurred and he was brought back to Denver.

Romantic Figure Gone

The most romantic figure left over from the thrilling days of Indian fights and clashes with white renegades—a figure at once the ideal and despair of every red blooded boy in America; a remnant of an organization that once roamed the plains of the fast vanishing wild west, disappeared with the death of Buffalo Bill.

Hero of hundreds of cheaply bound paper books designed to catch the youthful eye, and foremost figure in book after book of morocco bound, treasured adventure tale, he was the idol of boys, old and young, the country over.

Indian-Killer at Twelve
He killed the first Indian when he was only twelve years old, while he was with a troop of United States soldiers on their way from Lawrence, Kas., to Utah.

Young Cody was only ten when he left Iowa and went with his father and mother and seven sisters and brothers to Kansas. Isaac Cody, his father, was forced to leave when he became too ardent as a champion of anti-slavery.

Cody wasn't a soldier long. He left soon after the return from Utah to embark on an unsuccessful mining expedition in the vicinity of Pike's Peak. He broke his ankle on this trip and spent twenty-nine days alone while his partner, Dave Harrington rode 126 miles on a horse to get help. He was visited by a warring party of Indians who would have scalped him until he recognized the chief.

Served in Civil War

Cody served in the civil war, first a horse buyer for the government, then as a guide to Colonel Clarke. (Continued on page 6, column 1)

Cody and 'Beaver' Had Pact To Lie In Twin Graves

On the top of a mountain overlooking Cody, Wyoming, is the grave of Col. D. Frank Powell, ("White Beaver"), several times mayor of La Crosse. Beside it is an empty grave, awaiting the remains of Col. William F. Cody, ("Buffalo Bill"), who died at Denver today. These two old pals, scouts of pioneer days, met on the mountain-side several years ago and entered into a pact to be buried there, side by side. Today's telegraph announcement that Colonel Cody will be buried in Denver takes no stock of this agreement.

Drs. George and Will Powell of La Crosse are the closest of this city's many friends of Colonel Cody, having seen service with him in earlier days. The late Frank Burton was an intimate of Cody, and among his friends here is Joseph Skinner.

"Johnny" Baker, Cody's greatest crack shot, was a La Crosse boy, an adopted son of Colonel Cody. Colonel Cody's visits to La Crosse were always occasions for special parties made up of his many friends acquired during his visits here with the Powell brothers.

Allies' Reply May Now Be In Hands of Sharp

By ED L. KEEN
LONDON, Jan. 10.—The allies' answer to President Wilson would possibly be handed to Ambassador Sharp at Paris Wednesday, it was believed here. It will not be made for several days, an agreement for simultaneous publication in America and Europe having been made.

Delay in sending the reply has not been due to any differences between entente nations as to the general principles to be enunciated in the document, but to exchanges of views as to the phraseology with which these general aims were to be presented and desire to polish off the verbiage, which consumed some time. The note will thoroughly detail the allies' war aims and purposes.

British Cruiser Sunk By Mine in November Says German Paper

BERLIN, via Sayville Wireless, Jan. 10.—The British armored cruiser Shannon of 14,800 tons, was sunk last November by a mine explosion, according to a statement from the newspaper Basler Anzeiger, circulated Wednesday by the official press bureau.

The cruiser Shannon was a vessel of 14,000 tons according to the British naval register was built in 1905 and carried a crew of about 755 men. She carried Krupp armor in a belt six inches thick amidships and was armed with four nine-inch; ten seven-inch and sixteen three-inch guns and five torpedo tubes.

SAYS HE SAW THE SLAYER OF MODEL LEAP FROM WINDOW

Traveling Man Declares He Is Positive That Bernard W. Lewis Was Not the Man

TO RE-ENACT TRAGEDY

Hatching of Blackmail Plot in Model's Room, if Proved, May Advance a Motive for Murder

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 10.—B. C. Brown, a traveling salesman, who was passing the Wilton apartments in Philadelphia at the time the murderer of Model leaped from her apartment window, said positively on Wednesday that Bernard Lewis was not the man he saw leaving the Wilton.

Brown had been shown pictures of Lewis and had been given a full description of Lewis by one of the latter's "personal friends." "That man I saw leaving the Wilton was not Lewis," said Brown. "He was probably 35 or 40 years old, had a full, rather stout face, and would weigh about 190 pounds. I am sure it was not Lewis."

Saw Man on Train
Brown said he saw the same man the next day on a Philadelphia to Washington train and heard him called by name.

After Lewis committed suicide in an Atlantic City hotel while detectives were knocking at his door to question him about the murder of the Philadelphia model, Dec. 29, the statement was withdrawn later, after other motives were produced for Lewis' suicide.

Brown's statement was voluntary. He and J. M. Marshall, another traveling salesman, he said, were passing the Wilton at about 10:30 p. m. on the night of the murder.

"We stopped for a few seconds in front of the apartments," he said. "We heard a noise like some one scuffling about. Then from a window on a side street jumped a man. He carried his coat on his arm and seemed excited."

Wore Big Diamond
"He jumped almost into our arms. We grabbed him but let him go when he said he and his wife had been 'fooling about.' The man had a big diamond stud in his shirt front."

James S. McPayden, head of the Pittsburgh Union Stock Yards, and a personal friend of Lewis, described Lewis as being small of stature and not weighing more than 135 pounds.

"I left Philadelphia the next day, going to Washington and on that train I saw again the man who had jumped out of the Wilton apartment window," said Brown. "He still wore the big diamond. Another friend of mine who was on this train, spoke to him, calling him by name. 'I did not learn about the murder for several days. Then, after Lewis had killed himself I saw a (Continued on page 6, column 4)

ROADS WON'T YIELD CITY MUST FIGHT FOR UNION DEPOT

Burlington and Northwestern Chiefs Write Disproving of the Project

"WON'T RAISE REVENUE"

This Is Holden's Objection Besides Assertion "Q" Station Now Is All Right for the City

Hope of a union station gained by any other means than a fight was abandoned by the Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday, with the arrival of a letter from President Hale Holden of the Burlington railroad, expressing disapproval of the plan. A similar letter has been received from R. H. Ashton, president of the Northwestern railroad.

Attitude No Surprise

The receipts of the letters occasioned no surprise to President F. P. Hixon and other members of the Chamber of Commerce union station committee. A note of like tenor was received some days ago from President A. J. Earling of the Milwaukee railroad, and it had scarcely been hoped that the railroads would be more favorably inclined.

G. Van Steenwyk, a member of the committee who went to Madison on Tuesday to interview the state railroad commission and ascertain the procedure to be followed in securing a union station, was expected to return to La Crosse either on Wednesday or Thursday. With the information which Mr. Van Steenwyk brings, it is believed that a complaint to the railroad commission will be drafted at once, and the railroads called to give their reasons against a union station before the state board.

Holden Says Depot Comfortable

The letter from President Holden of the Burlington declares that the present station is satisfactory and "reasonably comfortable." It declares, moreover, that a union station would not increase the railroad's revenue but would increase the expense of handling the passenger business in La Crosse.

President Ashton of the Northwestern writes that the company is well satisfied with its present location and does not think its interest would be conserved by a change.

Both of the railroad executives, however, express themselves as willing to join any conference which the city may call upon the subject.

Holden's Letter follows:

President Holden's letter follows: "Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railway Company. "Office of President, Chicago, Ill. "January 9, 1917.

"My Dear Mr. Hixon: "Reply to your letter of December 30th has been delayed on account of my recent absence from my office.

"It is always our practice to give careful consideration to suggestions from citizens such as yourself, interested in the proper development of facilities at points we serve, and we will be quite willing to do so in this instance, if other lines care to discuss it. I feel I should say to you, however, it would seem to me unwise for this company to discard its present facilities. These are not of the most modern type but so far as we know they have proven to be reasonably comfortable and satisfactory for our service, and to abandon them and join in the cost of a Union station would not materially increase the comfort of our patrons, but would, as experience has always shown, inevitably increase our own expense in handling our passenger business at La Crosse.

"We feel it necessary to be conservative in matters of this kind which in no way tend to increase revenue; the added cost of interest and other charges is not compensated by additional business. At the same time we desire and endeavor to maintain our facilities in reasonable condition so that no ground for complaint may exist. At a time like this when, although revenues are higher, expenses are mounting higher in proportion, we feel that caution in expenditures is necessary, and in this instance I am sure that you will appreciate that it would be uneconomical for us to abandon a station already adequate and incur the larger cost and expense of participating in the rental and operation of a Union station at another location.

"Yours very truly,

(Signed) "HALE HOLDEN." "Aishton Is Satisfied" President Aishton's letter reads: "Chicago & Northwestern Railway Co.,

"Office of the President, "Chicago, Ill., January 5, 1917.

"My Dear Mr. Hixon: "I have your letter of the thirtieth ultimo regarding consideration of a Union Passenger Station at La Crosse, Wis.

"My knowledge of the situation at La Crosse is such that the physical condition does not lend itself readily to such a plan and that this company's terminal is located at the present time very advantageously to the business district of the city. In (Continued on page 6, column 4)

The recent debut of Galli-Curci in Rigoletto with the Chicago Opera Company was the occasion of the most spontaneous outbursts of enthusiasm and applause which have been repeated with increasing fervor on her every appearance. Possessed of a wonderful voice of velvety softness and purity, this new coloratura soprano established herself at once as a star of the first magnitude.

It was to be expected that an artist with such accomplishments would choose to be identified with the illustrious company of famous artists who make records for the Victor exclusively. The two records now presented are so true to life that they are arousing the same unbounded enthusiasm among music-lovers everywhere as was accorded her actual performances on the operatic stage.

You can have the pleasure of hearing these new Galli-Curci records at any Victor dealer's. He will gladly play any music you wish to hear and demonstrate the various styles of the Victor and Victrola—$10 to $400.

GRANDMOTHER KNEW

There Was Nothing So Good for Congestion and Colds as Mustard

But the old-fashioned mustard-plaster burned and blistered while it acted. You can now get the relief and help that mustard plasters gave, without the plaster and without the blister.

Musterole does it. It is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. It is scientifically prepared, so that it works wonders, and yet does not blister the tenderest skin. Just massage Musterole in with the finger tips gently. See how quickly it brings relief—how speedily the pain disappears.

Use Musterole for sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia).

Mrs. Gullick Halvorson, who for some time has been very ill with pneumonia, passed away at her home in this city last Tuesday afternoon. Complications which arose from her chronic asthma hastened her death. She is survived by three daughters: Mrs. Carl Berg of this city; Mrs. Lizzie Johnson of Mapleton, Minn.; and Mrs. Jennie Ware of Bingham Lake, Minn., besides a large number of grandchildren and several great-grandchildren. Funeral arrangements have not as yet been perfected.

Friends and relatives of Mrs. Caroline Erdmann, for nearly forty years a resident of this vicinity, were grieved last Sunday night to hear of her death at the Winona General hospital. Mrs. Erdmann had been obliged to submit to an operation as a last resort for the recovery of her health but her advanced age was considerably against her. She was in her seventy-first year and

The trouble started when Dennis O'Hara in "A Son of Erin" sent his photo taken in police uniform back to pretty Katie O'Grady. Katie had learned of how they took fake policemen pictures at a place called Coney Island. On the police force in such a short time! She would not be fooled into believing it.

The TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

A SITUATION

BY SUSAN E. CLAGETT
(Copyright, 1917, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"There is nothing new under the sun," Sarah Carroll, who was spending the summer with her friend, Mildred Carlton, said with something like asperity. "I know. Don't I write for my daily bread and the sweets that should go with it? I cudgel my brain for plot, for inspiration and evolve—a situation. A situation is not a story, yet it seems to me that situations are the only things in life."

"Where is your imagination?" Mildred asked.

"Imagination!" Sarah exclaimed in scorn. "Imagination was left out of my make-up."

The other leaned a little forward, looking toward the gate. "I think," she said slowly, "there is the beginning of a story that will not require imagination to carry it to a conclusion."

Sarah turned her head curiously. The gate was open. Standing just without, but in full view, was a little child, a black kitten closely clasped in her arms. She had been watching the two on the porch and when she thought herself unobserved, stretched out a hand and softly touched a cluster of half-blown roses that had pushed themselves through the palings.

For some minutes the two watched her in silence, and then Mildred called to her.

"Won't you come here and talk to us, little girl?"

The child, startled, came to the foot of the steps. "I didn't hurt them," she said under her breath. "I was just petting them and talking to them and wishing mother could see them."

"Where is 'mother,'" Sarah asked.

The child's eyes filled with tears. "She's sick down there," nodding her head in an uncertain direction. "And Daddy's sick, too."

"Poor little piece of forlornity, tell me all about it, and then we will go and see 'mother' and you shall have all the roses you can carry."

But the child could tell very little. They had come to the village a short time before and were living down by the creek and "a nice man came to see mother and daddy and make them feel better. He brought me my good luck pussy," she added, holding the kitten close, "and I love him." Yet the little she did tell roused the sympathy of the two girls.

RHEUMATISM GOES IF HOOD'S IS USED

The genuine old reliable Hood's Sarsaparilla corrects the acid condition of the blood and builds up the whole system. It drives out rheumatism because it cleanses the blood.

It has been successfully used for forty years in many thousands of cases the world over. There is no better remedy for skin and blood diseases, for loss of appetite, rheumatism, stomach and kidney troubles, general debility and all ills arising from impure, impoverished, dehydrated blood.

It is unnecessary to suffer. Start treatment at once. Get a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla from your nearest druggist. You will be pleased with the results.

edge of the bank above Rock Creek, stood a covered wagon, something after the order of the old time prairie schooners, but not so large. Still, it was large enough for the family of three that made it their home. Two horses grazed near by and between the trees hung two hammocks. A cot, under a slight shelter in the densest tree shadow, held a man whose face showed suffering. On the strip of sand close to the water a tiny fire burned and stooping over it were three figures, two women and a child. Further away another woman was busying herself about some household task.

Sarah and Mildred were having a picnic to cover an act of friendliness, for they had discovered upon their first visit that the child's parents were above charity, although their stress was great. The woman was far from well, and anxiety about her husband about sapped her strength. They had lived in one of the large cities where he held a good position until an attack of pneumonia left him too weak and wretched to resume it. Health and strength he must regain and they took their savings, bought food and outfit and started for somewhere.

"Just somewhere," the woman told Mildred, "where we could have God's sunshine and pure air. He improved at once, but a week ago he slipped and broke his leg. Since then life would be gray indeed if it was not for Dr. Winthrop."

"Dr. Winthrop!" Sarah exclaimed sharply. "Is he here?" She turned to Mildred, who had bent rather hastily over the creek and was washing her hands. "You did not tell me he was here."

The woman interposed. "I think he has been away, Miss Carroll. When he found my John he was passing in his car and it was pretty well filled with luggage. I remember, for I helped take it out so that we could put John inside."

Sarah was not satisfied and cast a suspicious glance toward her friend, whose face held a trifle more color than was usual. She said nothing further, however, until that evening when they were alone upon the porch. Then she said:

"When did he come?"

"You mean Dr. Winthrop?" Mildred's voice held a note unusual to its softness. "He has been in practice here for a year past."

"I have often wondered what became of him," Sarah said. "He disappeared suddenly, as suddenly as if he had been swallowed up in some catastrophe. You never mentioned that he was here, which seems a little odd, but your letters were never letters, just mere notes. I don't know why I should give a thought to him, for he passed entirely from my life after our last quarrel."

"Why did you quarrel?" Mildred leaned forward but did not look at her friend.

"Can you always account for happenings?" The other shrugged her shoulders. "Incompatibility. Jealousy. Fortunately we discovered it in time. He did not want me to look at another man, to accept an invitation. I cannot bear coercion. That was what it amounted to." She turned suddenly. "I think, Mildred, you would suit him, you are so gentle and so self-effacing."

"Nonsense." A sudden, sobbing cry caught and held their attention. Another, then the sound of a man's voice. Together they ran to the gate, into the road. A short distance away a car was standing. Near it a man with a child in his arms. He was speaking quietly, but with authority.

"Nannie, you must be quiet, must listen. Your mother is in no danger. She will be better tomorrow and you can help her by being good. Now, run in to Miss Mildred and tell her I sent you in to wait for me."

He put the child on her feet as the two girls stopped beside him. "What is it," Sarah asked, drawing Nannie toward her. "Can we help?" "If you will be so good." He spoke to Mildred. "Mrs. McCallum has had a rather severe heart attack and I have brought her to you. I was sure you would take her in. She needs care. That wagon, good enough to camp in, is no place for her in her present condition and there seems no place for mother and child except with you. I will take John to my rooms."

Sarah's eyes twinkled. There was no asking if it would be convenient, no expressed regret at the added burden to an already full life, just a taking for granted that his wishes would be carried out without question. Sarah was familiar with that attitude of his mind and looked at Mildred to see how she would accept this disposition of herself and home and found that young woman accepting the situation as a matter of course.

A week later the two girls were in their usual lounging place, Sarah on the steps, Mildred in a steamer chair. Nannie was with her mother, who was better. The two upon the porch had been silent for some time when Sarah at last aroused herself from her thoughts, yawned, stretched her arms above her head and said, with a trace of amusement in her voice:

"I did get a story, Mildred, but not the one you thought. There were a good many ends to be gathered together, yet they merely led to a situation." She paused for a minute, looking out into the dusk, then continued slowly. "One of the ends was held by a little child. Another was in the weak hands of a man and a woman. Still another led from a broken engagement to a self-contained man whose sole thought, save in one instance, is absorbed in his profession."

"And that instane?" Mildred asked with a show of interest. Sarah turned her head lazily and laughed. "My dear, I saw him kiss you last night."

YOU CAN SAVE A LIFE TODAY

Human mind is as powerless to grasp the maddening magnitude of Europe's horror, as it is to comprehend infinity or measure the Omnipotent. As when one's limb is torn asunder, the very shock of that incomprehensible calamity benumbs the senses and paralyzes conception.

But there are things we CAN understand. Your neighbor—
YOUR neighbor, next door; that brings it home to you—has left his home. The wife labors until, exhausted, she collapses. Fire destroys the house, and with her child, she lies in the deserted stable. The man is brought home, dead, to crown their misery.
There is no food, no fire. They are freezing, starving—these two: this woman and babe next door to you. YOU can understand THAT.

That's the only way to understand the war. One feels the anguish it brings to individuals, with a poignance that is lost in the neutral smear of the endless mass.

That child—that little girl, starving in the cold, next door—what are you going to do about her? YOU!

Why, the question insults you. You'd have that woman and child out of that barren stable in an instant. You'd warm and feed them. You'd dig into your pocket, and turn the whole house over to the pair. You'd be d—d if you'd stand for any such barbarity, if you had to quit your regular job to attend to them. You KNOW you would.

Yes, you—YOU! "The Thee within me blind!"
See, that mother and child ARE there, before you, starving!
freezing! The only differences are that, instead of next door, they are across the sea; instead of only two, there are MILLIONS.

Pick your child, your mother, out of this "Caesar's Column".
Rush the help that MUST HURRY TO SAVE LIFE, before it is too late.

God! Would you not pant and sweat to carry your dollar, or your ten or fifty dollars, to a place where it would save a life?
A HUMAN LIFE!

You would? Well, EVERY TEN DOLLARS turned over to a La Crosse bank for the American Red Cross WILL SAVE A HUMAN LIFE. Every dollar, every dime, WILL HELP TO SAVE A HUMAN LIFE.

Hurry, HURRY to the bank. The LIFE OF A DYING CHILD
HANGS UPON THE THREAD OF YOUR CHRISTIAN DUTY.
How strong is that thread? WILL IT SAVE THE CHILD'S LIFE?

OUR VERY COMFORT ACCUSES AMERICANS

The appeal of the American Red Cross brings home to us an accusing sense of our littleness. Here are we lolling in comfort and childishly complaining of annoyances such as the high cost of living—crying about it in full-bellied piggishness while half the world is dying of cold and hunger or, mutilated by shot and shell, sinks "unconfined and unknown" into the muck of earth.

By what dispensation America has been exempted from the greatest of human disasters, is a divine secret. Why we should prosper most while of all else only the devil prospers, who shall say? May it have been to put our civilization to the supreme test?

How dare any man or woman who has ever felt the God spark, give first heed to any consideration of less import than the duty every human creature owes to humanity in this debacle?

Sacrifice something, if it be only a cigar a day. Deprive yourself of something—bonbons, a bonnet; a pleasure trip or a touring car. The biggest thing you have to give up is small when measured by Europe's need.

WOMEN'S WORK A VITAL CHALLENGE

Just now Europe's ringing with praises from every official source in the belligerent nations of the unselfish, efficient way in which the women have shouldered the economic burdens dropped by the men who have gone into the trenches. No one disputes the statement that if it were not for the women who man the omnibuses and till the fields, truck freight and turn out big shells in the munitions factories, it would be impossible for the nations to carry on the war which each country holds to be a sacred duty of self-defense.

It is an interesting situation, surely, and one that perhaps more clearly than anything else establishes the claim of women to consideration in the matter of political equality. Perhaps the nearest to a sound argument that has ever been advanced against woman suffrage is that women are unable to bear arms in the defense of the country. With a war in progress in which it is universally admitted that it is the women at home who keep the armies in the field, it would appear as if that weapon against suffrage is as obsolete as a cross-bow would be on a modern battle-sector.

That European women will go far toward political equality at the end of the war seems a safe guess. But extension of political rights may be only one of the factors in the post-war situation of immense importance with relation to women. In the industrial re-adjustment which will come with peace, women will count as never before in the history of the world.

Women now dominate many large fields of employment in Europe. It is said that they have proved practically as efficient as men. Will women workers be willing to step down and out of their new-found horizons of achievement and independence when the war ends? Will they surrender their places to the returned soldiers and accept unquestioningly the narrow boundaries with which before-the-war Europe limited woman's endeavors?

Of all the economic problems that face Europe for solution after the war, there are few more important than this, to the outside world no less than the belligerents.

Rumania was supposed to have had, when she entered the war, a maximum military strength of about 600,000 men. According to German reports, she has already lost that many, yet she's fighting on, with stiffening resistance.

Most nations proclaim their kings, but in America the only way to get a king is to draw it.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

Out of the Mouths of Kids
Miss Julia James, the prettiest girl on the London stage, is an inveterate story teller. She tells an amusing story of a little girl friend, named Betty, who, during her first lesson in domestic science, was asked to tell briefly the best way to keep milk from turning sour. Betty, who is a practical child, gave this recipe:
"Leave it in the cow."

Bait for the Keeper
Although the notice plainly stated that fishing was prohibited there, the angler sat placidly dangling his line over the stream.

The irate keeper, who approached him, was surprised to see that the line was baited with a potato. In an amused voice he asked the intruder what he was doing.

"Fishing," was the reply. "You see, my health has been upset by financial worries, and I came down here to see if fresh air would help me."

Thinking that perhaps the poor chap was mentally afflicted, the keeper went away without denouncing him.

That evening the keeper was in the local tavern, telling his friends about the potato-baited line, when in walked the intruder.

"Any luck?" said the innkeeper kindly.

"Oh, fair!" was the reply, as the fisherman opened his basket and displayed a fine catch.

"Look here," stormed the infuriated keeper, "you didn't catch that lot with a potato."

"Oh, no," said the angler coolly.
"That was what I caught you with."

Yes, the Cat Was Clever Two suburban gardeners were swearing vengeance on cats.

"It appears to me," one said, "that they seem to pick out the choicest plants to scratch out of the ground."

"There's a big tom cat," the other said, "that fetches my plants out and then sits and actually defies me."

"Why don't you hurt a brick at him?" asked the first speaker.

"That's what makes me mad," was the reply. "I can't. He gets on top of my greenhouse to defy me."

From the Year One
While pawing through the archives of ancient Thebes a scribe came across a piece of papyrus on which were written characters that seemed to bear some relation to the style then in vogue.

After much laborious effort he was able to translate the words which proved to be a jest, venerable with age, and musty from long retirement.

Calling the custodian of the temple to him the scribe translated the words as follows:

"Why does a hen lay an egg?"

And then, deciphering the answer,
he was finally able to further read:

"Because it can't lay a cornerstone."—Youngstown Telegram.

BEER PRICE INCREASED
MANITOWOC, Wis., Jan. 10.—
Beer has been increased from $7 to $7.25 per barrel by local brewers.

Increased prices of malt and other material entering into the manufacture of beer prompted the brewers to make the boost. Case beer was increased ten cents a case.

Get the Habit of Drinking Hot Water Before Breakfast

Says we can't look or feel right with the system full of poisons.

Millions of folks bathe internally now instead of loading their system with drugs. "What's an inside bath?" you say. "Well, it is guaranteed to perform miracles if you could believe these hot water enthusiasts."

There are vast numbers of men and women who, immediately upon arising in the morning, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of lime-stone phosphate in it. This is a very excellent health measure.
It is intended to flush the stomach, liver, kidneys and the thirty feet of intestines of the previous day's waste, sour bile and indigestible material left over in the body which if not eliminated every day, become food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels, the quick result is poisons and toxins which are then absorbed into the blood causing headache, bilious attacks, foul breath, bad taste, colds, stomach trouble, kidney misery, sleeplessness, impure blood and all sorts of ailments.

People who feel good one day and badly the next, but who simply can not get feeling right are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little but is sufficient to make anyone a real crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

Just as soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and freshening, so limestone phosphate and hot water act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. It is vastly more important to bathe on the inside than on the outside, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

By Harriet Lummis Smith
Copyright 1916
The Bobbs-Merrill Company

It was not characteristic of Joel to keep his grievances secret. Where-ever he went for the next few days, he fairly oozed reproach and resentment. And on the Monday when Persis took the ten o'clock train for Boston it was generally understood that she had declined the pleasure of her brother's company and was bent on an errand whose nature she alone knew.

"She'll put up at a hotel, I suppose," said Mrs. Hornblower. "She'll have to, for there's nobody in Boston she knows well enough to visit.
A single woman staying alone at a hotel sounds dreadful improper to me. Robert would never allow me to do such a thing, never for a minute. And nobody even knows what she's gone for."

But Annabel Sinclair thought she knew. "I shouldn't wonder," she told Diantha, "if when Persis Dale gets back we'd see startling changes."

Her confidential tone was balm to Diantha's spirit. For since the daughter's sudden leap into maturity, the relations between the two had been strained, the instinct of sex rivalry overmastering such shadowy maternal impulses as had outlived Diantha's babyhood. The girl responded eagerly to the advance.

"Yes, I shouldn't wonder if she'd have lots of new clothes."

"She'll need more than clothes to make her presentable, and she knows it, too." Annabel's voice was rasping. "They have beauty-shops in the cities, you know, where they fix over old women who want to look young, skin off the wrinkles and all sorts of things." She flashed a glance at the mirror—there was always a mirror convenient in the Sinclair establishment—and smiled with malicious enjoyment. Annabel did not need skinning.

Diantha edged away with sudden distaste. "I don't think Miss Persis would do anything like that, mama."
"Why not?" Her mother spoke fiercely. "It's the sensible thing to do when you need it. After her good looks are gone, there's nothing left for a woman." The bitterness of a participant in a losing fight flung a black shadow across her fairness.
For defy Time as she would, the day must come when he would triumph.
She looked again at herself in the mirror as if already he had stolen the bloom from her cheek and the gold from her hair and shuddered at the thought of what must be.

Persis had said to her brother that she might be away a week. On the sixth day came a brief note to the effect that her business was not quite finished and that she would let him know when to expect her. Another week went by, and one afternoon
Joel received his first telegram.

He stood staring at the sinister brown envelope with its back lettering, and a chilly fear clutched his heart. One catastrophe after another suggested itself, each to be discarded in favor of another more appalling.
Persis had lost her money. She had met with an accident. She was dead.
His bony hand shook till the envelope rattled, and the small boy who had brought the message eyed him with curiosity.

"Any answer?"
The question was reassuring. It suggested that Persis was still to be reached by mundane means of communication. Joel regarded the lad appealingly.

"Say, son, do you know what's in this?"

"Naw!" The boy's tone showed impatience tinged with contempt.
"Why don't you look and see for yourself?"

The suggestion seemed reasonable, and Joel followed it. The typewritten enclosure blurred before his eyes, and so strong is the force of apprehension that he seemed to see words of ominous import staring up at him through the confusion. Then the mist cleared and his forebodings with it.

"Home on four-twenty train not necessary to meet me tell Mary to have plenty for supper."
"Persis Dale."

Joel felt the sense of grievance which is the almost inevitable sequel to groundless fears. "There's no answer," he told the boy gruffly.
The urchin sidled away and Joel stood rigid, regarding the slip in his hand. His first move! Joel counted the words. Seventeen! Joel groaned.
What extravagance. If she had said "unnecessary" instead of "not necessary" there would have been a saving of one to begin with. And the closing injunction might have been omitted altogether. "Tell Mary to have plenty for supper."
What an extraordinary request to telegraph from the city of Boston.
Could it be that in the metropolis of New England she had lacked for food to satisfy the pangs of appetite?

So absorbed did he become in attempting to solve the riddle that he almost forgot to impart the contents of the telegram to Mary. The fresh-colored farmer's daughter who had found life extremely monotonous without the vivacious presence of her mistress, heard the news with elation and showed no surprise over the concluding request.

"I've heard how they feed folks in them city places. Ma's cousin was a waiter in a Boston boarding-house once, and she says she was fairly ashamed to set before folks the little dabs that was served out, for all the world like samples. I guess after two whole weeks of that kind of food, Miss Dale's good and hungry."
(To be Continued)

It looks as if the daily job of eating were to be subjected to efficiency rules.

PICTORIAL REVIEW for February ON SALE NOW

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND

Enid Bennett is winning fame as a peace-maker at the Triangle-Kay Bee studios. A stray cat, called "Mikey" and a stray dog known as
"Leo II" recently found shelter at the studios. At first they were arch enemies and never missed an opportunity to have a free-for-all.
Then Miss Bennett came into their lives. Both fell in love with her, so the story goes. And love worked a miracle. In their great love for Miss Bennett they forgot their own differences and became friends.

Now they have been proclaimed studio mascots and they may be found safely ensconced in one another's paws on an improvised bed at night while the days go pleasantly by for them as they play together, romp together, eat together and are petted together by their favorite.

One thousand and one girls have recently learned that it is impossible to become a Mary Pickford in a day.

Some years ago the germ to become an "extra" in the studio where Paramount pictures are made got into the blood of thousands of young people—they had heard of Mary Pickford's experiences and were willing to duplicate them, and also work quite as hard as she does.

They tried, a few succeeded, but the great majority have concluded they cannot be a Mary Pickford in a day, a week, a month, a year, a lifetime.

Holding down the job of an "extra" girl was expressed very cleverly by one of the many at the Famous Players studio in New York in the following phraseology: "If any girl is looking for work, select something else; translate the Bible into Chinese, loop the moon in an aero-plane, compose a brand new opera, stop the war in Europe, or make the dove of peace settle down in Mexico, but don't class the job of being a screen star with any of these as being a cinch."

Pearl White Has Elixir Formula

Miss Pearl White recommends the movie treatment for neurasthenic patients. She says that one hour before the camera, trying to follow the script of an overimaginative writer,

Famous Writers

Goldwyn Pictures Co., recently organized, has an impressive list of writers under contract to write the movies it plans to produce. They are Bayard Veiller, Avery Hopwood, Irvin Cobb, Margaret Mayo, Edgar Selwyn and Roi Cooper Megrue.

The company's first picture, now under way, stars Mae Marsh.

Bessie Love, the Triangle-Fine Arts star, puts in a great deal of her spare time while at the studio between scenes in making Mexican baskets. She is very adept in this particular branch of the basket industry. She plays the piano, and also the ukulele. Miss Love is also the possessor of a beautiful soprano voice.

Everyone Needs a Tonic to Withstand the Rigors of Winter

A Few Bottles of S. S. S. Will Thoroughly Tone Up the Entire System.

Keeping well and in thorough physical trim is simply a matter of resisting disease to which the system is subject every day.

You can readily see, therefore, the importance of keeping the system in proper condition, strong and vigorous, and free from all manner of impurities.

Pure blood is the first essential to perfect health, for the blood is the source of all vitality. Keep your blood absolutely free from all impurities, and your health is assured.

The rigors of winter are unusually severe on the average system, and it is just now that assistance is needed.

A few bottles of S. S. S. will do you a wonderful amount of good by thoroughly cleansing and purifying the blood and putting the entire system in tip-top condition. It will improve your appetite, and by increasing your supply of rich, red blood throughout the circulation, new life and vigor will take the place of that weak and good for nothing feeling.
S. S. S. is sold by druggists everywhere, who will tell you that it has been on the market for more than 50 years and is thoroughly reliable. Valuable books and free medical advice can be had by writing to Swift Specific Co., 30 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

Germany to Give Terms in Second Note, Reports

ROME, Jan. 10.—German Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg is preparing a new note, in which he will define the war aims of the central powers and outline peace conditions acceptable to them, dispatches from Lugano asserted Wednesday.

Reported in London
An "important statement," will be made by Imperial Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg about January 15, special dispatches asserted Wednesday. The chancellor, it was asserted, will undertake to analyze the various peace moves which have already been made and may make another announcement. Arrangements for the Reichstag meeting, at which this statement is to be made, are being held in abeyance, it was said, until Germany learns the form of the allies' answer to President Wilson's peace suggestions.

The Berlin dispatches asserted that the further peace move which was planned by the chancellor would be addressed specifically to the neutral powers which supported President Wilson's note.

In view of these Berlin reports, it was pointed out here Wednesday that Germany has called a meeting of premiers of the central powers on January 15 and a conference of the presidents of parliaments of all her allies on the day following.

Believes U. S. Will Like Argentine Form of Conscription

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 10.—General Pablo Ricchieri, author of Argentine's military service law, thinks this form of conscription will eventually be found satisfactory for the United States. In an interview accorded the United Press Wednesday, he expressed the greatest interest in the report from Washington that military heads favored adoption of the Argentine idea for America.

LADIES TO MEET
The Ladies' Aid society of the Caledonia Street Methodist church will hold their regular monthly business meeting in the church parlors Friday afternoon. They will be entertained by the Mesdames Otto Krenz, John McKenzie, Morgan, Kaus and Kuckemeyer.

Don't try to cover up a bad complexion! clear it with Resinol Soap

If your complexion is rough, red or pimply, don't try to cover up the defects! It deceives no one and only makes bad matters worse. Begin today to clear your skin with Resinol Soap.

Just wash your face with Resinol Soap and hot water, dry and apply gently a little Resinol Ointment. Let this stay on for ten minutes, then wash off with more Resinol Soap. In a very short time you will usually find your skin becoming beautifully soft, clear and velvety.

Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment are sold by all druggists. Try them and see how beneficial they are not only for the skin but for the hair, too.

Colorado "Drys" Hope Now to Keep Liquor From State

DENVER, Colo., Jan. 10.—Local prohibition leaders, jubilant over the United States supreme court's decision on the Webb-Kenyon act, now plan to make Colorado a "bone dry" state within six months. There are at present no less than five amendments to the prohibition act ready to be introduced in the state legislature regulating the amount of liquor that can be imported into the state, and the methods of importation. These proposed amendments, local anti-liquor leaders declare, will now be discarded and a sweeping amendment to the prohibition statute barring all importations will be introduced.

Influential members of the house and senate claim that such an amendment would pass both houses by a big majority.

Under the present prohibition law unlimited amounts of liquor may be imported into the state "for personal use."

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush your kidneys occasionally if you eat meat regularly.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally. Says a well-known authority, meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

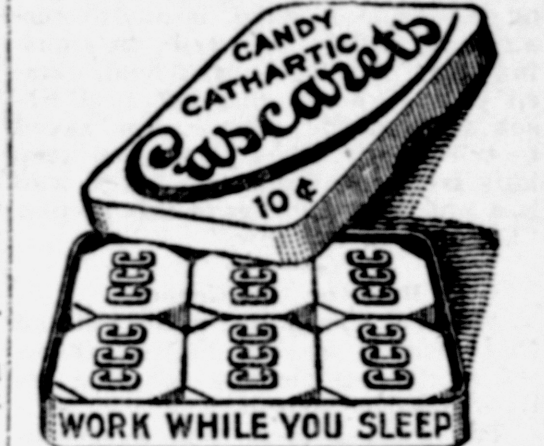

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

IT'S YOUR LIVER! YOU'RE BILIOUS, HEADACHY, SICK!

Don't stay constipated with breath bad, stomach sour or a cold.

Enjoy life! Live your liver and bowels tonight and feel fine.

Tonight sure! Remove the liver and bowel poison which is keeping your head dizzy, your tongue coated, breath offensive and stomach sour. Don't stay bilious, sick, head-achy, constipated and full of cold. Why don't you get a box of Cascarabs from the drug store now? Eat one or two tonight and enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced. You will wake up feeling fit and fine. Cascarabs never gripe or bother you all the next day like calomel, salts and pills. They act gently but thoroughly. Mothers should give cross, sick, bilious or feverish children a whole Cascarab any time. They are harmless and children love them.

Verse and Reverse

A SIDE STREET

On the warm Sunday afternoons And every evening in the spring and summer When the night hurries the late home-comer And the air grows softer, and scraps of tunes Float from the open windows and jar Against the voices of children and the hum of a car.

When the city noises commingle and melt With a restless something half seen, half felt—I see them always there. Upon the low, smooth wall before the church That row of little girls who sit and stare

Like sparrows on a granite perch. They come in twittering couples or walk alone

To their gray hough of stone. Sometimes by twos and threes, sometimes as many as five— But always they sit there on the narrow coping

Bright eyed and solemn, scarcely hoping To see more than what is merely moving and alive. They hear the couples pass; the lisp of happy feet

Increases and the night grows suddenly sweet. Before the quiet church that smells of death

They sit. And like sweeps past them with a rushing breath And reaches out and plucks them by the hand

And calls them boldy, whispering to each In some strange speech. They tremble to but cannot understand. It thrills and troubles them, as one by one

The day's run off like water through a sieve. While, with a gaze as candid as the moon Poignant and puzzled and inquisitive, They come and sit— A part of life, and yet apart from it.

I go every Sunday to church and you seldom do.'"

YOUTH SENTENCED TO DIE IN FAMOUS "AIR BUBBLE" CASE

Roy Hinterliter Caused Death of Girl While Trying to Perform Criminal Operation

OLNEY, Ill., Jan. 10.—The jury in the famous "air bubble" murder case, after twelve hours' deliberation behind locked doors, returned a verdict finding Roy Hinterliter guilty of manslaughter, at 4:15 o'clock Wednesday morning.

A motion for a new trial made by the defendant's attorneys immediately after the verdict was read, was overruled by the court. A motion for a writ of stay was also overruled. The "air bubble" murder of which Hinterliter was convicted grew out of the death of Elizabeth Ratcliffe, whom Hinterliter is alleged to have killed while endeavoring to perform a criminal operation. It had attracted widespread attention.

On the fragile surface of the "air bubble" theory rested the entire case of the state. Hinterliter, enmeshed in an impeaching net of circumstantial evidence, finally confessed while on the stand that he had been but thirty feet away when Miss Ratcliffe committed the act which cost her life. He admitted furnishing the operating instruments.

Miss Ratcliffe's death was caused by "air bubbles," injected into veins, reaching the heart. The discovery that a crime had been committed, came when the body was taken to the hospital by Hinterliter. Air bubbling from opened arteries aroused the suspicion of a physician at the post mortem.

Italian War Head Says Meet Soldered Allies Together

By JOHN H. HEARLEY
ROME, Jan. 10.—"The allied council just concluded must be considered one of the most important of the war; it has definitely soldered the links between the allies of their brotherly sympathy and stern resolution to achieve a final victory which will assure lasting peace and right and justice."

So declared War Commissioner Bisolati-Bergamashi, member without portfolio in Italy's cabinet, in an interview granted the United Press Wednesday.

"I am fully convinced from Premier Lloyd-George's electric personality, adamant character and his quick and unerring decision, that he is the right man in the right place at the present phase of the war."

SPANISH GAYETY SEEN IN "RAMONA"

Some real old-time Spanish gayety is shown in the prologue of "Ramona," the magnificent cinema-theatrical creation of Helen Hunt Jackson's noted story.

One festivity in particular is that of the wedding celebration of General Felipe Moreno and the beautiful Hermosa Gonzaga (afterwards the conspicuous "Senora Moreno" of the play) at Santa Barbara.

The early morning scene at the fine old mission here shown, where Father Salviederra, then in his prime, blessed the Indians that came from near and far to take part in the gayety, and to present their simple but picturesque wedding gifts; the realistic preparing and devouring of the barbecue; the splendid bridal procession and the pageant of color and movement, said to represent the most brilliant event of the kind that ever took place in Spanish California up to that time—all combine to form a pleasing sight, indeed.

CELEBRATION PLANS

Class in Pilgrim History Will

Be Organized Wednesday Evening

A class in the study of Pilgrim history will be started at the Congregational church Wednesday evening, it was announced by Rev. C. C. Rowison, pastor of the church, to prepare for the celebration of the Pilgrim Tercentenary in 1920. On February 13, it is announced a tercentenary rally of all Congregational churches in this vicinity will be held in La Crosse, with national leaders of the denomination here to speak.

Governor McCall, of Massachusetts, has announced his belief that the great event ought to be celebrated by some sort of a world's fair. The Congregational churches of the country, who perhaps more directly than any other religious body trace their descent from the Pilgrim church, are planning a number of great achievements as a proper recognition of the heroic struggles of the pioneers.

The Congregationalists are adopting a four years' program, leading up to 1920. Their program proposes, (1) A fresh study of Pilgrim history, in all the churches. (2) A movement to increase the membership of the churches by 500,000, in these four years. (3) Securing a large number of recruits for the ministry and mission fields. (4) Raising the annual gifts of the churches for benevolence to $2,000,000. (5) The establishment of a worthy memorial fund for some benevolent purpose.

'INFANT INDUSTRIES' HERE FLOURISHING

DECLARE REPORTS

Industrial Association Officers Say That Three Concerns Helped Are Making Good

DIRECTORS RE-ELECTED

Big Future Predicted for Businesses Assisted by Local Subscription

That three concerns which the La Crosse Industrial association was instrumental in starting in La Crosse are now among the most flourishing in the city was declared in the reports of officers read at the annual meeting of the association in the city hall Tuesday evening. Three concerns named were the National Gauge and Equipment, the Sta-Rite Engine and the La Crosse Garment companies. It was predicted by President E. M. Wing and Secretary Theodore Ubbelohde that the future would see great success for the three concerns.

Three directors of the association whose terms expire were re-elected for three years. They are L. C. Colman, L. F. Easton and H. J. Hirschheimer. The directors will elect officers of the association within a few days. No change is expected. It was announced that the chief activity of the association during 1916 was to pass upon a number of proposed investments, which were turned down as unwise. The treasurer's report showed that during the year the association took $1,000 of La Crosse Garment company preferred stock, and had a cash balance in the bank on January 5 of $4,921.70. Investments of the association were detailed by President Wing as follows: Sta-Rite Engine company, $25,000; National Gauge and Equipment company, $21,000 on contract and $1,000 in preferred stock; La Crosse Garment company, $6,000 preferred stock.

The meeting passed an amendment to the by-laws to make possible legal action against delinquent subscribers. The secretary reported that forty-two of the subscribers have not yet paid the last assessment.

Gauge Company Prospects
The president's report follows: "To the stockholders of the La Crosse Industrial Association: The National Gauge and Equipment Co. has had a very successful year and a dividend will be paid on the preferred stock for 1916. The record of the last two years has fully justified the action of the officers of this association in insisting on a change in the management and ownership of that concern, in order to protect the investment of the association, and more especially the preferred stockholders whose funds were being rapidly dissipated until their stock was of little or no value. Under the management of Mr. McMillan and Mr. Gelatt the business has been largely increased and put on a profitable basis, which justifies the hope that the preferred stock can be maintained on a dividend basis. Great credit is due these men, who have again demonstrated that the success of a manufacturing business depends very largely on the management."

The Sta-Rite Engine company has made a profit of $30,000 on its business for the year. This has resulted in a contract for building the Happy Farmer Tractor, and it is now proposed to merge these two companies into a new one to be known as the La Crosse Tractor Co. The association is offered $25,000 in the new company in exchange for the same amount in the Sta-Rite Engine company common stock. While this common stock represents no real value, and is a very small part of the total, there seems a reasonable prospect that the Tractor company will make the investment good, and in any event the location of this concern in La Crosse will mean a large pay roll, which is after all the important thing to La Crosse.

Only $60,000 of the subscribed stock of this association has been paid in, and the secretary and treasurer's reports will show the manner of its investment. Another Success
The secretary's report read as follows: "The president's report has given you a good idea of how two of the concerns in which the association is interested are progressing, so I will say a few words of another growing company, in which we have a holding stock, the La Crosse Garment Co. "This company is on the road to prosperity without a question. It has not yet begun to pay dividends but who has passed the danger-point, and its success is now assured. Last July the demand for space in which to work caused the removal to the building at the foot of Market street known as the 'Soap and Suet' building. This building was put in shape for use and is today one of the finest small factories in this section of the country, clean, light and airy. About forty operators are employed at present, and the La Crosse garments are sold in practically every state west of and including Michigan and Ohio."

"At the beginning of 1916 the assets of the association were $59,516.02. During the year we have added to this $1,000 of preferred stock of the La Crosse Garment Co. and on Dec. 30 had cash in bank, $4,921.70, making the total at present $65,437.72. "There are still 42 stockholders who have not paid assessment No. 5. Notice as provided for in the by-laws has been served on each of these, in fact several written notices have been sent and in many cases personal calls made in an attempt to collect. I recommend that legal steps be taken to clear these accounts up on the usual books. "Assessment has been levied during the past year, and all past due accounts should be collected before another assessment is called for."

Only One Loss
"A brief glance back over the history of this association will convince anyone familiar with the usual career of corporations of this kind how fortunate these investments have been. There surely has been no lack of opportunities to invest the funds of the association in a great many ways. Few of which have been able to meet the standard set by the directors."

HOLES
Theoretically the hole is a Void, a Vacancy, Nothing. Practically it is one of the most troublesome things in life. We dodge holes from the cradle to the grave, or, Nineteen-Seventeen speaking, from the Pacific to the Crematory. Take the merest infant. One of the first things it does is discover the hole in its face and try to climb in it. Life, particularly with socks, is just one darned hole after another. And in our tin roofs, rowboats, pavements, stewpans, stomachs and bank accounts we find them. Holes, holes, holes. Coal holes, rat holes, post holes, nail holes and mud holes; these are but a few of many. Yet let us not condemn the hole indiscriminately. Else how would we get our feet in our shoes? Or strain our cranberries? What would our golf links be without them? And where would we go from cyclones? The hole subject is deep. The world is, as you might say, full of them; and we mortals must deal with each hole as we come to it. Evidently Knew Them Both.
The bishop took a personal interest in all his servants, and, happening to pass the new maid, on his way through the back hall to the stables one day, he stopped to speak to her. "Well, child," he said, "and where are you?" "If you please, my lord," the maid replied, with a curtsy, "between the cook and the housemaid." "Heaven help you!" said the bishop, after a moment's thought, and went on his way.

DEFINITIONS
AN OCULIST is one who treats diseases of the nose, throat, eyes and ears, and examines eyes for glasses. He is seldom a true specialist in fitting of glasses because his training and practice have to do almost entirely with the treatment of disease, which has nothing in common with the fitting of glasses.
AN OPTICIAN is one skilled in the measurement of faces and the design and adjustment of glasses.
A MANUFACTURING OPTICIAN is one who grinds lenses and actually makes the glasses.
AN OPTOMETRIST is a specialist in examining eyes and prescribing glasses. An Optometrist does not treat diseases nor practice medicine in any form. He specializes on helping defective (not diseased) eyes, devoting his whole study to that one subject.

On Monday, April 19, 1915, the supreme court of Pennsylvania affirmed the following decision as previously handed down by the lower courts:

"The practice of Optometry does not constitute the person so practicing a person pretending to a knowledge of any branch or branches of medicine or surgery. "Optometry is not a branch of medicine. "These men (Optometrists) are not practicing medicine in a popular sense of the term. They give and prescribe no medicines and nobody pretends that they ever resort to surgery."

"It appears from the proofs that the business or profession of Optometry is one of ancient standing. Until a comparatively recent date, a large part of that which is done by Optometrists was not covered in practice by the efforts of the physician or surgeon. "Such work on the part of the Optometrist was done by him perhaps and probably long before the eye specialist among physicians had either the knowledge or skill to do the work."

"Optometrists make the examination of the interior of the eye with the aid of various instruments and hold themselves out as able, by the means which they employ, or determine for themselves and to advise their patients, whether the latter's eyes are diseased or not."

"Those who practice Optometry are many in number. They are recognized in all but twelve States of the Union as a class by themselves and are regulated by statute."

When suffering from eye strain and a need of glasses, always consult a skilled Optometrist who examines the eyes scientifically and accurately without the use of "drops."

CONCLUSION
H. C. Evenson, upstairs at 5th and Main Sts., is the oldest in years of experience, as an Optometrist in La Crosse. He also grinds lenses.

WINTER AND SPRING TONIC
Winter is a hard season for those who have no stored up reserve of strength. The coming of trying spring weather means sickness for many because debility robs the system of its power to protect itself. One person may suffer exposure to cold and wet without any ill effects while another whose blood is thin and whose nerves are run-down will be confined to bed after sitting in a draught. Keeping the blood built up is the secret of keeping well in winter and spring. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are the best and most convenient tonic for the blood. Put up with complete directions for use they are a family remedy that can be depended upon in conditions of thin blood, debility and many common forms of weakness. The blood goes to practically every part of the body and if it is rich and red it carries health and strength to every organ. The digestion is toned up, the nerves are strengthened and aching muscles are made strong. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are especially useful to run-down women who worry about their daily tasks and duties. A few weeks' treatment has in hundreds of such cases brought the most remarkable improvement.

SOCIETY

SLEIGH RIDE PARTY
Fifty members of the Epworth league of the First German Methodist church enjoyed a sleigh ride party to the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Vollenweider at La Crescent Tuesday evening. The party gathered at the church and the ride over in big sleighs was a merry one. Arriving at their destination the merry-makers partook of hearty refreshments served by the good host and hostess, and the evening was enjoyably spent.

BECKER-SIEBER
Miss Lena Sieber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sieber, 933 Island street, was united in marriage to R. H. Becker, 1222 Johnson street, at St. John's Catholic church at eight o'clock Tuesday morning. Rev. A. Becker performed the ceremony. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Mary Sieber, and John Krabinsky was best man.

The bride's gown was of pale green satin, with overdress of net of the same shade and garniture of silver lace. She wore a picture hat of white, trimmed with silver lace. The bridesmaid wore a gown of blue silk with blue picture hat. Both the bride and her attendant wore corsage bouquets of bride's roses. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served to a party of thirty at the home of the bride, only relatives and intimate friends being present. Mr. and Mrs. Becker left at noon for the Twin cities, and after a week's visit there they will be at home to friends at their home, 928 South Ninth street.

JORDAN-SCHALLER
Mrs. Louise Schaller Palmer, daughter of Mrs. Frank Schaller, 1311 South Fourth street, and James R. Jordan of Mitchell, S. D., were married at the home of the bride's mother at three o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Rev. Carlos C. Rowison officiating at the ceremony, which was witnessed only by immediate relatives and a few of the bride's girlhood friends. For the past few years Mrs. Palmer had been living in Mitchell, where she met Mr. Jordan, who is engaged in the lumber business there. The couple left Tuesday evening for a southern trip, and will be at home at Mitchell after February first.

V. P. S. ELECTS
Miss Alice Steenberg was chosen to head the Young People's society of our Savior's Lutheran church, corner Sixth and Division street, at a meeting held in the parlors of the church Tuesday evening. Miss Emily Smevoss was elected vice president; Russell Anderson is secretary, and Miss Nora Johnson was chosen treasurer. The society was entertained by Mrs. Mont Nelson and Howard and Ouida Anderson. An excellent musical program was given, consisting of several selections by the Norden band, a vocal solo by Miss Ruth Birdsall, piano selection by Miss Charlotte Basch and a vocal number by Miss Georgina Young.

LIMIT CLUB
The meetings of the Limit club, suspended over the holidays, have been resumed. The last meeting of the new year being held at the home of Miss Helen Hilton, 1521 Johnson street, Monday evening. Several members being absent on account of illness, the business session was postponed, and the evening was spent in needlework and social converse. Refreshments were served.

TWENTIETH CENTURY CLUB
The Twentieth Century club met in the kindergarten rooms of the normal school Tuesday afternoon in the first meeting since before the holidays. Mrs. William Doerflinger and Mrs. Alfred W. Langenbach were the hostesses. The lesson was in charge of Mrs. Jerome W. Hanks, who gave an excellent paper upon the Pan-American movement, telling of the origin and growth of the Pan-American union, which now includes among its members twenty-four countries in North and South America. Mrs. Hanks also told of the new home of the union in Washington, and passed among the ladies folders descriptive of the building. Mrs. Hanks' paper was followed by a talk on the Monroe Doctrine, by Mrs. Alfred H. Sanford, giving the history of that famous doctrine.

NO TRICK TO BE

HEALTHY, HE SAYS

Tanlac Man Claims You Can "Feel Fit" All the Time and Tells How.

"TRY TANLAC," HE SAYS

Moderate Eating, Proper Exercise, with Tonic Will Bring Results.

To "feel fit," to be healthy, is no real trick if you watch the simple things which mean so much to the man who knows and appreciates the value of sound living, said the Tanlac Man who is meeting the people of La Crosse at C. A. Begun's drug store, Majestic building. "Lots of times folks suffer from stomach worries when they might get rid of them by simply giving Mother Nature a chance," he continued.

How to "Feel Fit"
"Moderate eating and proper exercise will ordinarily keep a person feeling fit. But sometimes we don't do the things that Mother Nature intends we should do, and then there must be physical suffering. "Gas on the stomach that presses up around the heart so hard that one believes death is going to overtake him in the next minute is one of the most frequent symptoms of a worried stomach. It's a horrible feeling and should be got rid of as soon as possible."

Relief in Tanlac
"Those who have suffered know what it is to wake up in the morning with a tongue as rough as a bath-towel and a disposition so cross that even your own children seem to belong to someone else. Nervousness is no word for the jumpy feeling that you have."

"Tanlac drives right to the base of such a condition. It helps lift the sad, sick feeling from your stomach, smooths the rough-coated tongue, and puts you in tune with the whole world."

The Tanlac Man explains this new tonic to scores of persons daily at C. A. Begun's drug store, Majestic building. Tanlac may be obtained from Geo. H. Seidel, Sparta; G. C. Groezinger, Bangor.

MASTERS FINED $50
William Masters, foreman of the La Crosse Stone company, was found guilty of assaulting Edward Abraham, teamster, by a jury in circuit court on Tuesday afternoon. Masters was found guilty in county court and the case was re-heard on an appeal taken by Attorney George Bunge. Masters was fined $50 and costs by Judge Edward C. Higbee. Evidence showed that Masters used a club in his attack upon Abraham, breaking his nose. Abraham was confined in a hospital for several days.

Love comes to a woman like a sweet dream at dawn when the orb of day is kissing the dew drops, but to a man it comes like a collect telegram at midnight—with a sudden shock.

Sure! High Heels

Cause Corns But

Who Cares Now

Because style decrees that women crowd and buckle up their tender toes in high heel footwear they suffer from corns, then they cut and trim at these painful pests which merely makes the corn grow hard. This suicidal habit may cause lockjaw and women are warned to stop it. A few drops of a drug called freezone applied directly upon a sore corn gives quick relief and soon the entire corn, root and all, lifts out without pain. Ask the drug store man for a quarter of an ounce of freezone, which costs very little but is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet. This drug is an ether compound and dries in a moment and simply shrivels up the corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. Clip this out and pin on your wife's dresser.

commanding the Ninth Kansas volunteers and then as an enlisted man in the Seventh Kansas volunteers.

He gained his nickname in 1867 when he killed 4,280 buffaloes while under contract to supply a Kansas Pacific railroad gang with buffalo meat.

In 1868 he again enlisted in the army as chief of scouts for the department of the Missouri and the Platte, and began to establish his reputation as a daring Indian fighter. His most famous exploit was a duel with Yellow Hand, a Cheyenne chief, in 1877. The duel was fought on horseback in the sight of the opposing armies of Americans and Indians, and when Cody killed his opponent the Indians fled in flight.

Organized "Wild West"
About this time Cody was "discovered" by Ned Buntline, who published an article in Harper's Weekly concerning the plainsman's deeds of daring and then persuaded him to organize his Wild West show. Cody gave his first exhibition in Omaha in 1883, and then toured the United States and later Europe. The success of this venture netted him a large fortune, which he invested in western irrigation lands.

He made a farewell tour with his show in 1910, and has since been living most of the time on his tract of land in Cody, Wyoming.

Cody was born Feb. 26, 1846 in Scott county, Iowa.

Meets Death Stoically
Uraemic poisoning, which set in Tuesday, was the immediate cause of Colonel Cody's death, the doctor said.

All of Cody's relatives and several friends and old time associates were at the bedside when he died.

Col. Cody will be buried in Denver, it was announced.

Two days before his death today Buffalo Bill himself knew that the end was only a matter of a few hours. But the grim old pioneer, schooled to fortitude and strength, never wavered. Cheerfully he discussed his coming death with relatives. He even made plans for his funeral and, refusing to be downcast, insisted on playing cards with his sister. He met death as he had met life, squarely without flinching.

Resignation of Russ Premier is Capital Report

LONDON, Jan. 10.—Resignation of Premier Alexander Treppoff and Minister of Public Instruction Ignatieff, was reported from Petrograd Wednesday. GREEK COUNCIL FAVORS GIVING IN TO ENTENTE

Prompt Answer to Allied Demands Required in Ultimatum Delivered to Greece Tuesday

ATHENS, Jan. 10.—The crown council of Greece favors acceptance of the allies' demands as outlined in the note just received, according to an apparently reliable report circulated Wednesday.

Prompt answer of Greece to the original allied demands was required by an ultimatum delivered to the Greek government Tuesday by ministers of the entente powers. This insisted upon a reply within forty-eight hours. It has followed an "evasive" note addressed to the allies by King Constantine two days previously, in which he pointed out the difficulties in the way of compliance with the demands.

The demands served on Greece December 31, were for reduction of all Greek military forces in all parts of the kingdom except Peloponessus to the minimum required for maintenance of public order; prohibition against reservists' meetings in all parts of Greece north of Corinth; release of all Venizelist prisoners; formal apology to the entente for attacks on its troops, embassies and flags, and a change in the command of the first Greek army. The December 31 note also reiterated the previous demand for transfer of all Greek troops from Thessaly to Peloponessus.

Parent Is Silent

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 10.—Fred B. Gump, father of the 19-year old boy on whose charges Harry K. Thaw was indicted Tuesday in New York city, was silent at his home Wednesday as to the charges against the slayer of Stanford White. Gump refused absolutely to discuss the indictment charging Thaw with kidnapping his son and assaulting the boy with a whip.

While detectives were watching all incoming trains and searching other eastern cities for Thaw, a third indictment was being drawn for Oliver F. Brower, arrested in Philadelphia Tuesday, and who was found to have papers apparently belonging to Thaw, it is understood.

Young Gump returned to New York with Frank P. Walsh, his attorney. He is declared to have been forced by Thaw to sign a statement declaring that he deserved the flogging he received.

WHITTET AND BURKE NAMED SPEAKERS OF 1917 LEGISLATURE

Assembly and Senate Get Down to Business and Ratify Programs Completed at Night Caucuses

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 10.—The Wisconsin legislature is ready for business.

Both the assembly and senate met promptly at noon and ratified a program which was completed at a caucus Tuesday night.

Lawrence C. Whittet of Edgerton, was elected speaker of the house. C. D. Rosa, Beloit, progressive, withdrawing, and Senator Timothy Burke of Green Bay, president pro tempore of the senate. C. E. Shaffer of Madison, was elected chief clerk of the assembly. For sergeant-at-arms, T. G. Gretney of Iowa, was elected. O. G. Munson, Viroqua, was named chief clerk of the senate, and F. E. Andrews, Bloomer, sergeant-at-arms.

It took only about five minutes to make the roll-call in the house, assemblymen having no difficulty with the new voting machine. Following the election of officers the legislature adjourned until 10 a. m. Thursday when they will meet in joint session and hear the governor's message. It is expected that it will take some time for Governor Philipp to read his message as it is about 10,000 words in length. The present plans call for adjournment following the reading of the governor's message until next Tuesday.

There is some talk of a short session. This is supported by the announcement of Senator Byron Barwig, Mayville, that he will introduce a resolution tomorrow calling for only one day of rest out of seven. Barwig wants sessions held on Saturday and Monday. In former years adjournment have been taken on Friday until Tuesday. If Barwig's resolution is acted on favorably it should shorten the session considerably.

Petition protesting the election of Charles Lentz, assemblyman, democrat from the First district, Mayville, was filed with the clerk of the house Wednesday. The protest is made by Edmund La Boeu, Lentz's republican opponent in the election, on grounds of fraud. La Boeu charges Lentz's supporters with prejudicing voters in canvassing.

To Ask Full Investigation

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 10.—When informed by the United Press of the statement of B. C. Brown, in Cleveland, that the man he saw leap from Mazie Colbert's window was Bernard Wesley Lewis, Captain of Detectives Tate on Wednesday afternoon said he would ask the Cleveland authorities to make a full investigation.

Will Go Through Tragedy

The gruesome, brutal murder of Mazie Colbert, will be enacted in the very apartment in which her battered body was found twelve days ago, it was announced Wednesday at the request of John Colbert, brother of the slain girl.

"I want to show," Colbert said, "that the least sound in my sister's apartment could have been heard by both the janitor and Marie Collins."

The "performance" will be staged on the theory that a man, coming from a taxicab, entered the apartment. Then, the last night the "girl with the form divine" is known to have lived, will be gone over. Furniture and glassware will be hurled about, duplicating as nearly as possible the noise of the model's struggle for life.

If detectives testing in Miss Collins' apartment find the noise of the struggle must have been loud enough to have awakened a person, the investigation may be started along new lines, it was indicated.

Miss Collins was known as Miss Colbert's best friend. Her apartment was close to that of the model. Both the Collins girl and Police Magistrate Imber, who talked to Miss Colbert the day she is supposed to have been murdered, were to be questioned further Wednesday.

District Attorney Rotan decided upon this as the result of conflicting statements both have made. Both volunteered the information they had talked to the model on the telephone some time about 11 o'clock Friday morning, December 29. Some time after that Miss Colbert was murdered.

When Henry J. Bass, clerk in a men's furnishing store, told the district attorney that Bernard Wesley Lewis, the Pittsburgh man who committed suicide, has been in his establishment about ten o'clock Wednesday as to the charges against the slayer of Stanford White. Gump refused absolutely to discuss the indictment charging Thaw with kidnapping his son and assaulting the boy with a whip.

Captain of Detectives Tate announced he will call an up-state merchant to Philadelphia. The merchant was blackmailed out of $350, and circumstances point to some of Miss Colbert's "friends," detectives say. If such a plot was hatched in the model's apartment, detectives believe it would advance a motive for the murder.

John Ruegg, assistant barn boss of the Heileman brewery, died at 12:20 Wednesday at the Lutheran hospital where he was taken last Thursday, after being kicked in the head by a horse. Ruegg had been unconscious practically since the accident.

TO CLEAR OIL FIRMS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The Texaco and the Gulf oil companies, "follow the Standard Oil company" in setting their prices, but no actual evidence has been adduced to show any "agreement to maintain prices" between the three, the federal trade commission will declare in its gasoline report to be presented to congress, probably next week, the United Press learned Wednesday.

UNFILLED TONNAGE INCREASES

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Unfilled orders on the books of the United States Steel corporation reached another new high record Dec. 31, an increase of 488,744 tons over the record set in November.

The company's unfilled tonnage Wednesday showed 11,547,286 tons unfilled orders on the books December 31 against 11,058,542 on November 30.

Trees Used for Cisterns.

Among the most curious of trees is the gigantic baobab, which flourishes in central Africa, the trunk of which sometimes attains a diameter of 40 feet, according to the Los Angeles Times. This trunk serves as a natural cistern, retaining rain water in large quantities in a cavity formed at the top. The Arabs artificially hollow out the trunks of large baobabs and fill them with water during the prevalence of rain as a provision against the dry season. These cisterns are in many cases 20 feet in height and eight or ten feet in diameter.

How "Rubbers" Were Produced.

"Rubbers," as Americans have named them, were the invention of Charles Goodyear, father of the man who helped produce the Goodyear well machine. In 1833 it was found that India rubber, dissolved in turpentine and mixed with lampblack, would give a waterproof surface to leather. But the leather so treated was subject to atmospheric changes, heat causing it to melt and cold to crack. Mr. Goodyear mixed sulphur with the other combination and produced rubber.

BENNET SUGGESTS DISTRICT ATTORNEY AS HOME ARBITRATOR

Viroqua Senator Wants Law to Make Official Divorce Counsel

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 10.—(Special.)—Senator J. Henry Bennett, Viroqua, Wednesday announced that he would introduce a bill in the coming session of the legislature which will virtually turn the office of the district attorney in each county into a domestic relations court.

It is Senator Bennett's idea that the district attorney should be an ex-officio divorce counsel; that he should hear both sides of the case; that he should settle all cases out of court if possible, and that no suit for divorce should be started without the written consent of the district attorney.

QUORUM LACKING FOR THIRD TIME

Co-Op Plant Stockholders Demand Investigation

With a quorum lacking for the third time, the stockholders of the Farmers' Co-Operative Packing company met in Yeomen hall on Wednesday to consider the proposed reorganization of the plant. About 450 were present. A quorum is 1,150. Demands for an investigation of the organization of the company were voiced by a number of speakers at the meeting, and several proposed that the company go into the hands of a receiver, as a means of wiping the slate clean for a fresh start. It was pointed out that this latter step could be taken by the board of directors without the action of a quorum of the stockholders.

REPORTER DECLARES LANSING GAVE TIP TO AVOID GARBING

GIRLS! TRY IT! HAVE THICK, WAVY, BEAUTIFUL HAIR

Says Lansing Didn't Want Incorrect Form to Be Sent Here from Europe

"NO LEAK" SAYS WITNESS

Manager of Washington Bureau of Central News Says Note Was Withheld from the Morning Papers

BY J. P. YODER
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The first "contradictory testimony" of the note leak probe came Wednesday when Archie Jamieson, state department reporter for the Central News of America, in describing how Lansing gave the newspapermen the confidential tip on the note, said:

"Secretary Lansing had said he was giving us the information because he did not want it to come back in garbled form from abroad and injuriously affect the market."

Representative Lenroot then read Secretary Lansing's testimony to the effect that he "had not had the market in mind," when he gave the tip and imposed secrecy upon the reporters.

Bolling Demands Apology

R. W. Bolling, brother of President Wilson's wife, first witness Wednesday, demanded an apology of Representative Wood for bringing his name into the leak probe.

"My name has been mentioned in connection with the leak. I have nothing to say except that whoever is responsible—I believe it is Representative Wood—can send me an apology at the same time he sends one to Secretary Tumulty," said Bolling, testifying in the probe hearing.

"I know nothing about the leak and had no information about the note in advance."

Bolling said he knew of no members of congress dealing through his firm and he himself was not in the market. He was excused.

Knew a Note Was Coming

Manager W. A. Crawford of the Washington bureau, Central News of America, presented a confidential telegram sent to his New York office wherein he had revealed (under permit from the state department) the fact that a note was forthcoming.

Not a Leak

"There was no leak on that, however," Crawford explained. The message declared the note was held for morning paper publication because the department did not want to have it affect the market.

Crawford informed the committee that the International News Service supplied news to the Dow Jones company, a ticker concern, whereupon Representative Bennett asked that a representative of that organization be called.

William Odlin of Hearst's International News Service, said the only information about the note sent out by the Hearst service was a "cautionary message to hold the report in reserve."

"Is your service the Hearst service?" asked Chairman Henry.

"It is so called," Odlin replied.

Queried on I. N. S. Story

Chairman Henry wanted to know who had written an article printed in Texas under an "I. N. S." slug line recently which Henry said was in effect that a cabinet officer, two senators, and a high official might be involved in the leak situation. He thereupon demanded the names of all the Hearst staff here.

After having telegraphed for C. W. Barron of the Wall Street Journal and Dow Jones company, the commission later decided to issue a subpoena for him to come here with his ticker reports.

SUFFRAGISTS SPOT WHITE HOUSE IN FIGHT FOR VOTE

Two Members of Congressional Union Stationed at the East and West Gates

POLICE MAY STEP IN

Guards Sent to Scene to Prevent Violations of the Law by the Women

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Carrying their fight for suffrage to the gates of the White house, twelve Congressional union women pickets took their positions at the east and west entrances to the mansion grounds at 10 o'clock Wednesday.

Immediately upon arrival of the "silent sentinels," attaches of the White house went into conference to discuss ways and means of dispersing the women, should any demonstrations occur, or should the "silent sentinels" program draw crowds about the gates.

At 10:30 President Wilson returned from his morning golf game and ran the gauntlet at the west gate.

The suffragists were so surprised they did not recognize the White house car until after the president had passed.

He smiled as his car rushed between the sentinels.

An idea of the earnestness with which the Congressional union intends to go into its picketing of the White house came Wednesday afternoon when it was announced the silent sentinels would be gradually increased until 3,000 will be surrounding the executive mansion grounds by inauguration day, March 5.

Offited of the action by the women, the police department sent police to the scene to guard against law violations. It was stated action might be taken compelling the women to take out a permit, on the ground that no banners containing advertising can be displayed in the district without such a permit.

The suffragettes have orders to keep silent and stand with their backs to the fence, so that all passers-by can see the yellow banner on which is inscribed on black: "Mr. President, what will you do for women suffrage?"

Valued Home Remedies

To End Coughs

The following formula, easily mixed at home, makes one of the quickest cough remedies obtainable, often curing the worst cough as often as a day. Take a teaspoonful as often as necessary.

Glycerine..... 1 ounce
Whiskey (or sugar syrup)..... 1/2 pint
Globe Pine Compound..... 1/2 ounce (Concentrated Pine)

If sugar syrup is used instead of whiskey it can be easily made by dissolving 1/2 ounce of globe pine compound in 1/2 cup of water. Be sure to use Globe Pine Compound which is sold only in 1/2-oz. screw top cases with Aromatic printed in red on outside label.

How To Relieve Rheumatism

After each meal and at bedtime take a tablespoonful of the following home-made medicine now used all over the United States and noted for its remarkable results. Relief begins at once.

Whiskey (or sugar syrup)..... 1 ounce
Tonic Compound..... 1/2 pint Whiskey or Simple Elixir..... 1/2 pint

Frost-bites, Corns, Sore Feet

Bathe the feet in warm water to which has been added two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound. This gives instant relief for aching, burning or perspiring feet; corns, callouses, sore bunions, also for frost-bites or chilblains. The Calocide acts through the pores, removing the cause of the trouble. It also keeps the feet in a healthy condition, free from itching and puffing.

These formulas are published by the Medical Formula Laboratories, Dayton, Ohio. The ingredients specified can be procured from any good drug store.

NO CHANGE MADE IN OFFICERS OF NATIONAL BANKS

All Officers and Directors of Local Institutions Are Re-elected

Officers of the national banks of La Crosse were re-elected on Wednesday by the directors of both institutions, following the annual meetings on Tuesday, at which the stockholders re-elected all the incumbent directors. The only change made was that the Batavian bank added the name of D. G. MacMillan to its list of directors.

Officers elected for the National Bank of La Crosse are George W. Burton, president; L. C. Colman, vice president; F. H. Hankerson, cashier; Joseph Boschert, assistant cashier; R. C. Wheelpley, assistant cashier.

The Batavian bank officers are: Edwin M. Wing, president; G. Van Steenwyk, vice president; John A. Beyer, cashier; H. O. Klein, assistant cashier.

Directors of the National bank are: L. C. Colman, W. R. Montague, George H. Gordon, J. M. Hixon, Henry Gund, Joseph B. Funke, C. F. Mitchell, E. L. Colman, George W. Burton.

Batavian bank directors are: A. Hirschheimer, Michael Funk, F. A. Copeland, G. Van Steenwyk, E. T. Mueller, B. C. Smith, A. G. Paul, O. To Bosshard, E. M. Wing, D. G. MacMillan.

GROGERS STRIKE AT LIVING COST WANT ACTION NOW

Urge Federal Probe and Bar to Speculation, Also One Cent Letter Postage

WHY THEY ARE ORGANIZED

Secretary Authorized to Meet Libelous Stories with True Aims as Set Forth in Constitution

At its meeting Tuesday night the La Crosse Retail Grocers' association inaugurated a movement through which it is hoped the National association may induce the government of the United States to strike a genuine blow at the high cost of living. Speculation in the necessities of life is given as the principal occasion of illegitimate price inflations. "Corners" and "unrestricted exports" have their ears soundly boxed by the resolution, which is directed to the National association.

The government is asked thoroughly to investigate the situation, to keep a normal food supply in the United States, and to lambast speculative ventures in food stuffs now carried on through American boards of trade. An educational program to acquaint the public with the facts about the food situation is suggested.

A Definite Plan

Following is the resolution as unanimously adopted:

To the National Retail Grocers' Association of the United States of America.

In view of the general unrest caused by the increasing prices of almost all foodstuffs and other articles of common daily use among the families receiving medium or low incomes; and

In view of the statements by many persons who claim to know, that unrestricted exports, commodity speculation, "corners" and arbitrary price raising are not only restricting the available supply, but making more expensive the obtaining of commodities in common demand by the great body of people with limited means; and

In view of the probability of small results from an appeal to the national administration by a few individual grocers' associations or by a number of citizens in any one locality;

We, the La Crosse Retail Grocers' association, suggest and urge:

That the National Retail Grocers' Association of the United States of America frame a petition or document setting forth apparent conditions and calling on the national administration.

1. To become extremely active at once in ascertaining all possible facts concerning the demand, supply, distribution and price of foodstuffs and other commodities in common demand in the United States.

2. To take decisive steps to retain in this country a normal supply per head of such commodities.

3. To make and firmly enforce necessary regulations preventing commodity speculation, "corners" and arbitrary price raising which may not be absolutely necessary because of a failure of supply.

4. More generally, and thoroughly to spread full information among the people themselves regarding comparative utilities, comparative values, normal supplies, actual supplies, and economical substitutions of commodities.

5. That copies of such petition or document be sent by the National Retail Grocers' Association of the United States of America to all state organizations of retail grocers and general merchants, and to each and every local association in the United States, and to every known civic and commercial organization in the country with the urgent request that as many signatures of citizens be obtained thereto as may be possible, and the same be returned to said National association for presentation to the national administration at a stated early date.

Respectfully submitted,

LA CROSSE RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION,
La Crosse, Wis.

Adopted January 9, 1917.

For One-cent Letter

The association also adopted the following resolution:

THE LA CROSSE RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION,
La Crosse, Wis.

"Be it resolved, that the Retail Grocers' association does hereby petition congress to reorganize the postoffice service, that each and every department of it shall be self-sustaining, and that the interstate commerce commission be duly charged by law with the power and duty to investigate postal rates to the end that the rates charged may be adequate to cover the expense of each class.

"Resolved, that we endorse the movement for one cent letter postage, and that our association assist and assist in the furtherance of the movement."

THE LA CROSSE RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION,
La Crosse, Wis.

Adopted January 9, 1917.

What They Stand For

Following discussion of information to the effect that there exists in La Crosse a false impression of the purposes and activities of the grocers' association, Secretary Taggart was instructed to make public these purposes as set forth in the following portions of the organization's constitution and by-laws:

To the Public:

The purpose of the La Crosse Retail Grocers' association shall be:

1. To foster a more social feeling among members of the trade.

2. To encourage such jobbers and commission houses as do an exclusive wholesale business.

3. To establish a collection bureau for the benefit of the members: giving reliable information concerning persons unworthy of credit, and assisting in the collection of delinquent accounts.

4. To establish an Intelligence Bureau where members may be aided in procuring reliable help.

5. To regulate the irresponsible peddling of fruits, produce, etc., without proper supervision as to the sanitary qualities of goods sold, etc.

6. To secure protection against adulteration of goods, fictitious labels, etc.

7. To encourage all "gift schemes" as an inducement for the introduction and sale of an article.

8. To encourage the introduction and sale of all goods on their respective merits.

9. To shorten the hours of labor wheness to so reorganize the postoffice service, that each and every department of it shall be self-sustaining, and that the interstate commerce commission be duly charged by law with the power and duty to investigate postal rates to the end that the rates charged may be adequate to cover the expense of each class.

10. To secure protection against unjust laws affecting trade, by encouraging and assisting favorable local and state legislation.

11. To secure standard weights and measures for the protection of the consuming public.

12. To establish sanitary conditions where fruits and merchandise are sold.

13. And for the purpose of building up our city and community and to assist in every shape and manner, all civic bodies that are working for a bigger and better La Crosse.

14. To assist the health department of our city in every respect for the benefit of our city.

15. To patronize our home manufacturers and jobbers, price and quality equal to any outside house.

In our efforts to attain these objects, we hope to encourage every honest dealer in resisting fraud and trickery in every shape and by united action secure to ourselves and our customers all benefits that are possible in connection with our trade.

LA CROSSE RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION
La Crosse, Wis.

Adopted January 9, 1917.

Buy Goodyears and You Buy Satisfaction

The aim of the Goodyear factories and the desire of the average tire-buyer meet perfectly in Goodyear Tires.

Both seek the same goal—maximum mileage at minimum cost.

The Goodyear factories work toward this end by putting into their product the best of materials, under the best of methods and the best of manufacturing conditions.

The tire-buyer does his part by paying a price that will allow such selection and construction.

That this price should not appreciably exceed ordinary tire prices is, of course, largely due to Goodyear manufacturing economies—to compact and intensive organization, to expert and effective effort, to the elimination of wastage wherever possible.

But it is also greatly due to the part the average tire-buyer has had in the development of this institution—to his consistent and increasing patronage, which has built up our present tremendous volume.

For great volume is the parent of manufacturing economy.

So both parties who seek high virtue in a motor car tire, maker and buyer, have helped to put it in the Goodyear Tire.

And a third party, until now unmentioned here, has helped as well.

The Goodyear Service Station Dealer.

You will find him in the obscure villages, in the larger towns, in the tremendous cities of America, always within easy reach.

His interest is the same as ours—that you shall have maximum mileage and satisfaction from Goodyear Tires.

His purpose is identical with ours—to hold your business by getting your friendship, by giving you service.

He does it, first, by selling you Goodyear Tires, and second, by helping you care for them.

He is an essential in the Goodyear "greater mileage triangle" of maker, user, dealer.

Go to him the next time you want a tire. He is foregoing extra discounts that he may sell you better tires. He is a good man for you to know and to deal with.

Goodyear Tires, Heavy Tourist Tubes and "Tire Saver" Accessories are easy to get from Goodyear Service Station Dealers everywhere.

AGED SETTLER OF COUNTY DIES IN NINETY-FIRST YEAR

Mrs. Mary Tollefson Who Came Here in 1848 Passes at Home of Daughter

One of the oldest settlers of this county died on Monday evening, when Mrs. Mary Tollefson, widow of Ole Tollefson, passed away in her ninety-first year at the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. E. Strand, 1417 Ferry street.

Mrs. Tollefson was born in Valdris, Norway, September 27, 1826. She came to this country in 1848, and settled on a farm in Bostwick Valley with her husband, Mr. Tollefson died about fourteen years ago, after the family had moved to La Crosse.

Three daughters and a son survive, besides Mrs. Strand. They are Tollef O. Tollefson, Troutdale, Ore.; Mrs. H. A. Heyer, Chetek, Wis.; Mrs. Carl M. Albertson, Stoddard, Wis., and Mrs. John Knutson, Mindoro, Wis.

Mrs. Tollefson is also mourned by twenty-four grandchildren and eighteen great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence and at 2:30 from the West Avenue Norwegian Lutheran church. Rev. O. C. Myrhe will officiate, and burial will be made in Oak Grove.

SAVAGE SECURES BIG SMITH TRUCK AGENCY

Negotiations for exclusive handling in La Crosse and eight nearby counties of the Smith motor truck, the most widely known truck unit manufactured in America, were closed on Wednesday by M. D. Savage, well known La Crosse automobile dealer. The deal was closed by R. A. Rourke, sales manager of the Smith Motor Truck corporation, of Chicago. Mr. Savage will be the exclusive dealer for the trucks in La Crosse and the surrounding country.

"The Smith corporation is but seventeen months old," said Mr. Rourke, when interviewed at the Hotel Stoddard on Wednesday, "but it has done a business upwards of $12,000,000.

"In the few days in which I have been in La Crosse I have become enthused with the prospects for a large truck business. Our truck was the first manufactured for use on the Ford chassis. The motto of our concern is $350 and a Ford makes a one-ton truck. Mr. Savage intends to satisfy the demands of farmers for a substantial truck which will fill all their needs."

THE LAWS OF DREAMS

By Frederic J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 10.

One of the most interesting things in modern science is the work being done in the investigation of dreams. The dream-world is still on the frontier of science—only a few daring investigators have ventured to explore its boundaries and lay down its laws with any assurance. Their work has been followed with keen attention by all who chanced to come in contact with it, for the land of dreams has always powerfully excited the wonder and the curiosity of humanity.

The study of dreams is anything but a new study; the science of dreams is still the newest of sciences. Ever since humanity began to think at all, it has pondered over dreams and the meaning of dreams, as witness Joseph and his interpretation of the dream of Pharaoh. Dreams play a big part in all primitive religions; elaborate manuals explaining the significance of all sorts of dreams and objects seen in them have appeared from time to time for thousands of years. Yet it is only today that the scientific method, which has revolutionized so many fields of human knowledge is directing its searchlight on the mystery of dreams.

It is still too early to look for a complete scientific explanation of dreams and their meaning. But the scientists have collected a mass of material on the nature of dreams and dreaming; they have established certain fundamental principles of the causes and processes of dreams.

The name of Professor Sigmund Freud of Vienna stands at the head of the list of men who have done notable work in the explanation of dreams. Professor Freud is recognized as one of the most eminent in his field; he has labored tirelessly, and his theories have a host of followers. According to Freud, every dream has a meaning, none is insignificant to the expert who understands the laws of dreaming. Freud advances a single explanation for the cause of all dreams. He holds that they spring from some form of wish or desire. Suppressed during waking life, this desire pushes forth in some strange and symbolic shape during sleep causing and shaping a dream.

All dreams are full of symbolism. The strange creatures and objects which abound in them can almost always be traced to some idea or emotion, which is represented in the dream by a figure whose connection with its source may not be clear even to the dreamer. In this respect dreams have been well compared to the cartoons in the daily papers. It is pointed out that if the explanatory line of type or the labels on the figures in many cartoons were taken away, the cartoon would seem grotesque and meaningless, yet touched with a vague suggestion of hidden meaning. Looked at in this light, a dream is a sort of an elaborate animated cartoon with the explanation lost.

Almost all scientific authorities on the subject agree with Freud in regarding the figures in dreams as symbolic of thoughts and feelings and actions of waking life. Freud's position in assigning a single cause to all dreams is regarded by many as too radical. Most investigators do not go so far. They are willing to see a hidden or forgotten wish or desire as the cause of some dreams, but not of all. Professor Freud has, however, made a lasting name by his work in this line, and he is recognized as the chief figure in the new field. By means of his interpretations of dreams he has been able to understand and cure many of the more obscure forms of nervous and mental trouble. His work is hence particularly associated with dreams in more or less marbled people.

The sleeping line of all perfectly healthy and normal people, however, is also full of dreams. Some authorities go so far as to say that we dream all the time we are asleep. When we awake after a night of "deep dreamless sleep," they say, we simply mean that we cannot remember any of our dreams, that the doors between sleeping and waking life have been tightly closed. When we awake with the memory of our dream, that memory has slipped through the door with us, from the great store of dreams on the other side. This theory of continual dreaming is not accepted by most investigators; it is manifestly almost impossible to prove it one way or the other. It is only the dreams we remember that we can study and try to explain.

When a sleeper begins to dream, he enters a new world. That world is just as real to him as the world of waking life, as long as his dream lasts. Most people have had the experience of dreaming vividly, and yet on awakening and looking back on their dream, they seem to remember that they felt all along that it was only a dream. This experience would seem to contradict the generally accepted view that the dream-world is real to the dreamer, but those who have studied the matter tell us that in such a dream we are probably sleeping lightly. Every time we realize that the adventures we are having are "only a dream," what really happens is that we wake up for an instant, only to fall instantly asleep again. In other words, so long as we are dreaming in a sound sleep, or any real sleep at all, the dream is completely real and convincing. We are inside it, a part of it; we cannot stand aside and recognize it for a dream without waking up.

The current idea of a dream is that of a tumbled, tangled, chaotic jumble of unreasonable and illogical experiences. The usual idea of the dream-world is that of a lawless and disorderly place. This is a completely mistaken notion, according to the new light on the subject. A dream, we are now told, is above all things reasonable. A dream is not disconnected, but elaborately connected. In a dream, the mind is making a wild effort to explain logically what it does not understand, to take the distorted messages that come to it through the sleeping senses, and the fragments of memory that arise in the sleeping brain and make them into a reasonable whole.

Thus, a sleeper dreams. Perhaps during the day he has tried to find a friend. This bit of memory comes up, and in his dreams he tries to find him again. The friend may live a hundred miles away, but the narrow reasoning of dreams seizes the most obvious expedient, and in the dream, the dreamer starts out to walk to his friend's home. While he walks in his dream, he may be lying in bed in such a way that his breathing is difficult. This fact of difficult breathing comes to the dream mind, which at once seeks a reasonable explanation. The commonest cause of difficult breathing in real life is running. Hence the dream mind at once conceives of the walk toward the friend as becoming a run—to explain the quick breathing. Still unsatisfied, it must explain the running. The obvious reason for running is because we are pursued. The dream mind promptly invents a pursuer, seizing upon the first figure that crops up—some utterly unrelated person or animal seen during the day. Now the covers may slip, leaving the sleeper cold. The logical dream mind invents a snow-storm to account for the sensation of cold.

Thus the sleeper may dream of going to see a distant friend on foot, pursued at a mad run by some grotesque creature or some dignified acquaintance, the whole chase taking place over snowy cliffs, with a horrible feeling of oppression and effort. On awakening he is totally unable to account for such a ridiculous chain of events, but it was built from the simplest elements by reason run wild.

From such an example it is clear that the modern investigator explains a dream as built of a logical fusion of vague sensations from without, and disconnected memories from within, modelled into a fantastically reasonable whole by the sleeping mind, which reasons as best it can on the facts as they appear. The wide stores of knowledge and experience are cut off from use by sleep. Such an explanation does away with many of the old beliefs in the supernatural element in dreams—their prophecies, their inspirations, their explanations of mysteries that would be inexplicable to the waking mind.

It is acknowledged that in sleep we may solve problems and hit on explanations that elude us when we are awake, but this is explained as due to the fact that the mind in sleep is quiescent, taking whatever chance offers it without the prejudice that may blind our waking judgment. However, we must remember that we are just at the beginning of our understanding of dreams. At least we have gone far enough to say that sleep is not the brother of Death, but rather the shadow of life.

OLD LOOKS

(BY DR. N. B. COOK)

Persons suffering from too much uric acid in the system frequently look older than they should. They age faster and the appearance of gray hair or baldhead in early years is, indeed, often a sign of uric acid. The face appears lean and haggard, lines and wrinkles appearing in young men or women.

The best way to combat this premature age and the obstruction to the arteries and faulty circulation is of the simplest. Drink copiously of pure water between meals. Obtain at any drug store a small package of Anuric, in order to expel the uric acid from the system. The painful effects of backache, lumbago, rheumatism, gout, due to uric acid in the blood should quickly disappear after treatment with Anuric.

greatly benefited by the use of Dr. Pierce's medicines. The 'Favorite Prescription' cured me of a very bad case of womanly weakness. I have also taken it at different times when I would not feel well and it always fixed me up in fine shape. I have given 'Golden Medical Discovery' to my son; he was all run down in health and it cured him in just a short space of time. I have also used the 'Pleasant Pellets' and they are equally as good. These medicines have been used in our family for many years. I can highly recommend Dr. Pierce's remedies."—MRS. ELVIRA RICHARDSON, 223 Madison Street.

Safe or Sorry WHICH?

Will you take chances with a cold, and risk catarrhal trouble? Or will you take Peruna and rid yourself of catarrh?

That's a question you must answer often this winter. Just remember, every cold that "gets well" of itself leaves traces of its visit. Sometimes these get to be serious. Often they manifest themselves in catarrh of the stomach and intestines.

PERUNA Conquers Catarrh

Every cold is a possible start; every attack of indigestion may leave catarrh. The medicine that overcomes the cold and sets the digestion to rights may also overcome the catarrh—if it is Peruna. This threefold usefulness distinguishes this remedy above all others. Its effectiveness is proved by the evidence of thousands, gathered in our experience of forty-five years, and it has helped so many you may reasonably expect it to help you.

In either liquid or tablet form, whichever fits your needs.

Manalin, the ideal laxative and liver tonic, can be taken with Peruna. In its tablet form it is delicious to the taste, convenient, and without unpleasant effect. 10c and 25c.

MORE SENSATIONS PROMISED BY HOYNE IN GRAFT SCANDAL

Confessions May Lead to Men Higher Than Healey Is Intimation

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—More sensational developments were promised by State's Attorney Hoyne Wednesday, in the greatest police graft scandal in the history of Chicago. Hoyne issued a statement saying that he had confessions from Tom Costello, "fixer" and go-between, and from Police Lieutenant White. These confessions, Hoyne stated, lean directly up to Chief Healey. Hoyne intimated that they would eventually lead still higher, but refused details.

Costello, a police "fixer" for years, is said to have agreed to tell the whole story of those years. White, assigned to the Lake street station, is said to have related all of his connections with vice and gambling through Costello and his partner, Mike De Pike Heitler, and W. R. Skidmore.

Hoyne in his formal statement charged that Costello made weekly visits to Chief Healey at his home and paid over graft money collected from gamblers, resort keepers and other protected raiders of the public.

The man who does not see that the good of every living creature is his good, the hurt of every living creature his hurt, is one who willfully makes himself a kind of outlaw or exile; he is blind or a fool.—Gilbert Murray.

Foreign Markets

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—The stock market opened with irregular and narrow changes Wednesday, issues which advanced in the upward movement at the close Tuesday, retaining their gains. United States Steel, in which interest centered because of unofficial estimates on its unfilled orders report, opened at 113 1/2 and 3/4, having closed Tuesday at the latter figure. New Haven again was weak, selling down 3/4 to 47.

Bethlehem Steel broke ten points on its first sale, when 100 shares were sold at 48 1/2.

Anglo-French loan sold off 3/4 to 92 1/2 and other foreign bonds were lower.

General Motors new stock again broke sharply, selling down 1 1/4 at 119 1/2.

The general list was inactive, barring a spurt of strength in coppers during the morning.

The market was heavy during the greater part of the afternoon. The stock market closed weak.

Chicago Grain Review

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—There was a general heavy feeling on the wheat market Wednesday. The market was narrow, however, and responded quickly to orders. Prices were steady at the start, declining slowly later.

May wheat opened unchanged and lost 1/4 c, going to $1.86 1/2. July opened down 3/4 c, subsequently losing 1/4 c and going to $1.50 1/2 c. September wheat opened unchanged, subsequently losing 1/4 c, going to $1.36 1/2 c.

Corn, which opened lower, recuperated later. There was a fair buying in evidence on the dip on rising orders. May opened down 1/4 c, then gained 1/4 c, going to 98 1/2 c. July opened down 3/4 c which was regained later, standing at 97 1/2 c.

Oats were lower, due to small demand. May opened down 3/4 c, remained stationary, standing at 57 1/2 c. July opened down 1/4 c, also remained steady at that figure.

Provisions grew weak upon unexpected heavy arrivals. Trade was light with commission firms noted on both sides in a small way.

SPUTH WILL SEND STARS AGAINST OSHKOSH SHOOTERS

Captain Meinert, Grounds and Hoepfner Will Be in the First Game in South Conference

The La Crosse Normal will array its strongest basketball material against the Oshkosh five on Saturday night when La Crosse makes its debut into the southern section of the state conference. Coach Sputh is not satisfied with the way the new material has shown up and has decided to use the old veterans as long as he will be able to use them before they leave in February for their various jobs in the several states. As a result of this decision, it is most probable that Captain Meinert, Grounds and Hoepfner will all appear in the lineup at the shrill of the referee's whistle on the send-off.

It is the consensus of opinion here that the La Crosse organization will be forced to put in its strongest material if it expects to issue victorious in its first encounter with a team from the south. Reports from the east are to the effect that the Oshkosh normal five has been defeated this season by the teams of Lawrence and Ripon, both defeats were by the smallest of margins. Lawrence has held the state university team to a comparatively small score.

Practices are in order every night this week before the first conference game of the season for the normal men.

NOTRE DAME WILL PLAY WISCONSIN

Indiana Eleven to Have First Big Game in Ten Years

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Jan. 10.—Notre Dame will play the Wisconsin football team next autumn, making the first time in ten years the Indiana eleven has had a conference team on its schedule, according to an announcement made Wednesday.

Other teams on the schedule are: Washington and Jefferson, Kalamazoo college; Nebraska, South Dakota, Army, Morningside college, Sioux City and Michigan Aggies.

JACK MORAN BEATS GEYER

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 10.—Jack Moran won from Jack Geyer in twelve rounds in the roughest battle seen here in years. The heaviest got so roughly enthusiastic that three policemen were called into the ring to separate them in the final round.

FULTON ADVANCES BY LANDING K. O. TO TOM COWLER

Minnesota Heavyweight Finishes Man in First Round and Now Is Ready for Havana

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Fred Fulton, Minnesota south-paw, is in the big league. His manager, Frank Force, has everything lined up for the huge plasterer to pull off two more bouts in New York and then beat it for Havana where Fulton expects to meet Frank Moran in a scheduled forty round tussle.

Fulton reached security in the big fight league Tuesday night when he heaved his left hand over on Tom Cowler's jaw, and the alleged "concrete crusher" knocked off work for the night. It happened in the first round.

The blow that started the finish, according to Fulton, was a short right hand upper cut which landed on the point of Cowler's chin. Cowler, dazed was an easy mark for a smashing left hook that put him down for nine. Rising, he ran into a fusillade of rights and lefts which left him sprawling on the lower rope of the ring, while the referee counted him out.

Miss Ruth Law, the aviator, who recently made a record non-stop flight across the country, has refused an offer of $35,000 a year to appear on the stage.

Fifty-eight per clock-tick

Every time the clock ticks, fifty-eight Fatimas are lighted somewhere in the United States. No other high-grade cigarette has so many unchanging, unswerving friends.

This shows that men do appreciate cigarette comfort.

For, Fatimas are comfortable. Not only comfortable while you smoke, but more than that, comfortable after you smoke—even though you may smoke the whole day through.

The Fatima Turkish blend is so carefully balanced that it has none of the after-effects of heavier, less skilfully blended tobaccos. That's why Fatimas are comfortable (hence, sensible)—as your first package will prove.

Herman is Bantam Champ With Win Over Kid Williams

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 10.—Pete Herman is the new bantam-weight champion. He defeated Kid Williams here Tuesday night, and will defend his title against Benny McNeil in Kansas City, Mo., January 23, according to announcement by Matchmaker Gabe Kaufman of Kansas City.

Charges Williams Robbed
BALTIMORE, Md., Jan. 10.—In a telegram received here Wednesday, Dave Wartner, manager of Kid Williams, charges that his protegee was robbed of the decision and his title by Billy Rocamp, referee of the Williams-Harris scrap in New Orleans last night. Wartner says that his body had all the best of it and claims that Rocamp's decision met with open disapproval in New Orleans.

Badgers Rally and Win An Overtime Mix From Purple

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—A matter of ten seconds Monday night lost Northwestern its first conference basketball game of the season. Wisconsin won 29 to 21 after the Purple had held the lead with only that fraction of a minute to play, a final effort by the Badgers tying up the score, requiring an extra five minute period, in which the Wisconsin five amassed its winning points. McIntosh and Olson starred for the Badgers.

GREEK SHOTS GREEK

ROCK ISLAND, Ill., Jan. 10.—Jim Vasaloin, a Greek hitting from Milwaukee, Wis., was shot and killed on the street of this city Monday night by John Makris, a local Greek, who escaped after the shooting and has not been apprehended by the police.

DIES FROM TRAIN INJURIES

ANTIGO, Wis., Jan. 10.—Larry Corbett, 60, died Tuesday from injuries received when run over by a train which backed on them at Eland Junction. One of Corbett's legs was severed.

Substitute for Gold.

A substitute for gold is obtained by combining 94 parts of copper with 6 parts of antimony and adding a little magnesium carbonate to increase the weight. It is said that this alloy can be drawn, wrought and soldered very much like gold, and that it also receives and retains a golden polish. It is worth something like 25 cents a pound.

Coffee and Nerves.

It is a fact beyond dispute that tea and coffee act on the nervous system and that they are dangerous if used too freely. A moderate use of either (or both) is probably harmless, if not made too strong.

Charges Chicago Officials Benefit In Auto Stealing

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 10.—Frank J. Parker, alias John E. Miller of Chicago is willing to go back to Chicago and tell what he knows of officials who have accepted money for the protection of automobiles thieves.

He declared Tuesday in Hennepin county jail here that he was tired of being the goat, and admitted that he had distributed thousands of dollars to officials in Chicago, some of whom are high in official circles.

He disclosed a system whereby the police and the thieves worked together for the protection of men who have stolen hundreds of cars for distribution throughout the country.

He named men who have as yet not been implicated in the investigation by Chicago and Minneapolis officials and declared that the end of the system has not yet been reached.

It is said that Parker may be returned to Chicago at the urgent solicitation of Maclay Hoyne, state's attorney.

WANTS DEATH PROBED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The state department was requested Tuesday to investigate the death in Mexico City of Louis D'Antin, an American citizen who was an attaché of the Mexican embassy in Washington, by Mrs. D'Antin. Private advices reached Washington that D'Antin had been murdered.

After the divine fire of love is started it takes fuel to keep it going.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Second Wisconsin Congress Claims Merchants' Interest

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 10.—Many features of interest to retailers will be included in the program of the Second Wisconsin Commercial and Industrial Congress to be held under the auspices of the University of Wisconsin on Feb. 20-22, according to recent announcements.

E. St. Elmo Lewis, national authority on salesmanship and advertising, will give two addresses. He is a practical man who is engaged daily in the promotion of more remunerative business.

James W. Fisk, who has charge of the retail accounting work of the Associated Ad Clubs of the World, will appear on the program several times. He was formerly educational director for Lord and Taylor of New York and for J. L. Hudson company of Detroit.

A. C. McMahon, western manager of the National Cash Register company, who made one of the big hits at the World's Salesmanship Congress at Detroit, will speak on "Solving the Knotty Problems of the Salesman."

G. M. Finger, of Fond du Lac, will explain how he reduces the cost of doing business through the use of "The Cash and Carry Plan."

M. Slattery, secretary of the Retail Grocers' and Merchants' association of Wisconsin, will talk on "Cost Accounting for the Retail Merchant" from the standpoint of the general merchant.

C. P. Jackson, of De Pere, will tell how merchants of the state are materially reducing delivery costs. Cost accounting as applied to retail trade will be presented by Prof. F. W. Elwell, H. W. Meyer and L. R. Boulware.

Two methods of getting a more rapid turn over will be taken up by Prof. E. H. Gardner and G. P. Irwin. The first will discuss "Increasing Volume and Decreasing Cost through Effective Advertising." The second will talk on "Reducing Cost by Increasing Sales."

Mornings and evenings will be devoted to general sessions on important subjects. Afternoons will be devoted to sectional meetings and round tables for merchants, manufacturers, bankers and commercial secretaries.

Troubles of the retail merchant and their remedies will be depicted through moving pictures and a lecturer during noon hours.

RECOMMENDATION FOR BIG AIRSHIP APPROVED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Immediate construction of a large airship of the German Zeppelin type under the direction of the chief constructor of the navy has been recommended by a joint committee of army and navy officers of the general staff of the army and the general board of the navy. The recommendation has been approved by the secretary of war and the secretary of the navy.

Private Divorce Lawyers to be Hit By Bennett's Bill

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 10.—A bill which if passed would practically eliminate the private "divorce attorney" in Wisconsin will be introduced this week by Senator J. Henry Bennett of Viroqua, he announced. The bill provides that no divorce suit can be filed without the consent of the prosecuting attorney who is to be ex-officio divorce proctor.
